DECISIVE BATTLE OF BALKAN WAR BEGINS AS BRITISH, NAZIS MEET

FDR Opens Red Sea to U. S. Shipping

Vessels Can Go to Suez Under Order

Re-Opening of Area Follows British Successes In East Africa; Agency To Control Prices Also Set Up By Executive Command.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt was asked today whether there was any question of transferring more American destroyers to Britain and his reply was a flat no.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt by proclamation today reopened the Red sea and the Gulf of Aden to American shipping, permitting United States commercial vessels to come up the east side of Africa to the Suez canal.

Announcing his action at a press conference, Mr. Roosevelt revealed also that he has proclaimed that a state of war now exists between Germany and Italy on the one hand and Yugoslavia on the other.

Reopening of the Red sea and Aden to American shipping follows virtually complete success of British arms in Ethiopia and Italian teritory lying along the western side of the Red sea and the Aden gulf.

These sea areas originally had been barred to American shipping by proclamation of a narrow combat zone from the eastern tip of Africa to the Arabian coast. Revocation of this combat zone in effect removes the "stopper" which kept American vessels away from Suez.

Mr. Roosevelt admitted that under the new order, American vessels will be able to carry supplies for non-belligerent countries up to the southern mouth of the canal. He dismissed as not pertinent and a matter of argument whether Port Said on the Mediterranean end of the canal would be now open to American ships, explaining he does not know whether Port Said's docks lie in the Mediterranean which is definitely a combat zone or in the canal zone which definitely is not a combat zone.

At any rate, Mr. Roosevelt said, United States vessels now can go to Ismalia at the Red

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The first death since 1903 of an Ohio State university student due to an injury received in athletics was recorded today when Albert R. Davison, jr., 19, died from a blow on the head suffered in baseball practice.

Davison, whose home was in Plainsboro, N. J., was hit on the head by a pitched ball while trying out for the O. S. U. freshman team Wednesday. A blood vessel in the brain was broken. U. S. READY TO ARM GREENLAND

Army, Navy Expected to Begin Work on Air Bases at Once as New Defense Link.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The army and navy were expected today to begin work immediately on construction of air bases in Greenland without waiting for formal leases of the sites to be developed.

Prompt forging of this northernmost link in the chain of fortifications to guard Atlantic approaches to the Americas was reported to be considered of utmost importance in official quarters, especially since German warplanes were said to have flown over the big Danish island within the last three weeks.

The German flights were disclosed by Secretary Hull yesterday in announcing an agreement for the defense of Greenland signed by himself and the Danish minister here. The flights occurred on March 27 and 28, Hull said.

Welcome To—

A daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Dagwood Bumstead at Comic Strip hospital today.

Mrs. Bumstead, better known to News-Journal readers as "Blondie" gave birth to a seven-pound baby girl early today but if you want to know anything about the new arrival you'll probably have to talk to her young brother "Baby Dumpling."

He was the only one who preserved his equanimity amid all the excitement which is bound to lead to plenty of new entertaining complications in the Bumstead home — which has never been a dull place.

"Doctor" Chic Young, who draws the comic strip that appears in The News-Journal daily, announced that the baby was on the way several months ago, but readers got their first hint of the event in the drawings three days ago when Dumpling started building a cage to catch the stork.

Just how the proud father is taking all this you'll have to turn to the comic page to find out. Things looked bad for him yesterday when he was awaiting a call from the hospital.

Today he gets the call. . . .

RAINY EASTER

Predicted Showers To Help Farmers, Spoil Parade.

Farmers may get the showers they have been wishing for, but they probably will arrive Sunday in time to spoil the Easter parade, the weatherman predicted today.

The forecast said it will be fair and slightly warmer tonight, partly cloudy and warmer Saturday, and cloudy with scattered showers Sunday. The weather will be warm, however, in contrast to the near zero reading last Easter.

Although Columbus had a severe storm with hail and lightning late Thursday, the Mansfield area received only a few drops of rain and two or three claps of thunder.

The temperature fell to 36 degrees here this morning from a high of 70 yesterday. It was 66 at noon today. There was no cold weather reported anywhere in the nation.

Premier Calls Japanese Policy 'Economic and Peaceful.'

TOKYO —(AP)— Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye in a highly significant statement reiterated today that Japan's southward policy was "purely economic and peaceful" and insisted that Japan would not use force to realize her ambitions.

Konoye, whose statement was made at a press conference with Japanese reporters, appeared optimistic regarding United States-Japanese relations.

He acknowledged, however, that Japan's membership in the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis and continuation of the China conflict were obstacles in the path of a completely amicable relationship between Tokyo and washington.

LONDON—(UP)—Yugoslav circles reported today that German troops are believed to be at the gates of Belgrade and may already have entered the capital.

(By Associated Press)

British expeditionary troops were reported today to have "established contact" with Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg invaders in northern Greece as Nazi panzer columns knifed clear across lower Yugoslavia to threaten Greece from a new direction—the northwest.

The London radio said German forces were advancing into the Aegean kingdom through the Bitolj (Monastir) gap in Yugoslavia at the border.

It was apparently in this sector that a great and perhaps decisive battle between the Germans and British was developing.

The British radio said German troops were attempting to fight their way through the gap, under heavy RAF attack.

The B. E. F. communique, issued in Athens, said briefly:

"German forces in northern Greece came into contact with British and imperial troops on April 10."

In Berlin the German high command asserted that the Serb army in southern Yugoslavia was "destroyed" and that Nazi columns plunging northward toward Belgrade from Nis "are in close pursuit of the Serbs."

Unconfirmed reports had previously listed Belgrade as captured, but the high command's report would indicate that the bomb-smashed Yugoslav capital still was holding out.

KEY: Turkish Army Stands As Barrier to Nazi Advance

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Turkey holds the key to Great Britain's hopes for safety of the middle east against Nazidom, observers said today.

Although Ankara's policy of sitting tight disappointed some London observers, they still viewed the Turkish army as a solid barrier keeping Germany out of oil-rich Iraq.

The Balkan and middle eastern war situation roused mixed expressions of gloom and confidence in London.

Germany's lightning advances in Greece, Yugoslavia and Libya produced some undisguised pessimism, but to many sources the potentialities of Turkey, Soviet Russia and the British navy provided a basis for confidence.

British officials rejected the flat assumpion that the Nazis were aiming at the Suez canal and the Iraq oil fields as their ultimate goal. However, there was lively speculation on that possibility in many quarters.

The coup of Axis-sympathizing Rashid Ali El Ghailani with the support of army leaders in Iraq was interpreted in London as a surface indication that the Nazis were preparing the far end of the Berlin-Baghdad route in advance.

However, official London would not concede today that the drive to the east had taken precedence over the basic project of invasion

RECLAIM: Hungarian Army on March to Take Back Lost Area

(By Associated Press)

BUDAPEST, Hungary — The Hungarian army has marched into Yugoslavia to reclaim territory lost in the World war.

An army report said Magyar troops had crossed the Trianon frontier between the Danube and Tisa rivers, as well as in the triangle in Baranya between the Danube and Drava rivers.

The Hungarian nation was informed of this step, taken yesterday, with publication in morning papers today of a proclamation of Regent Admiral Nicholas Horthy.

The proclamation said formation of an independent Croatian state in the north left Yugoslavia "dissolved into several parts."

This act left Hungary the "duty to take again in our own hands the care for Hungarians living in the territories stolen from us," it said.

(Under the treaty of Trianon in 1920 Hungary lost perhaps 500,000 of her Magyar population to Yugoslavia in the Banant, Barayna and Medjumurje regions.)

"This was a national duty which we had to fulfill without delay," Horthy's proclamation continued, "therefore I gave today (Thursday) the order to my soldiers to defend Hungarians living in the southern territories from the devastation of anarchy.

"The action of my soldiers was not directed against the Serb people. We have no conflict with them and wish to live in peace with them."

Admiral Horthy congratulated the Croat peoples on formation of their independent nation and asserted Hungary "will respect it for all time.

Newsman Takes His First Plane Ride On Girl Pilot's First Passenger Hop

Mansfielder, 19, Receives License; Reporter Says She Deserves It.

By WILLIAM MURRAY

CLIMAXING two years of study and training, Miss Thelma Mae Kennedy, Marion avenue road, yesterday received her pilot's license, the first woman in this area to win the right to pilot passengers.

Miss Kennedy received most of her training through the Civilian Pilot Training program instituted here last year. When the government decides that a student should get a license, that student is qualified to get it. I should know because it was my first flight and I was Miss Kennedy's first passenger. It promised to be a harrowing affair for both of us.

With little confidence, I made a date with my pilot, incidentally one of the prettiest pilots now aloft, for another flight to celebrate her 100th trip up. It seemed a long way off.

Only 19 years old, Miss Kennedy handled the controls like a veteran, at least enough of a veteran that I felt safe all the time we were in the air. She handled the plane, a steelmonoplane, like a living thing. After she lifted it off the ground, things went perfectly.

Before that, by far the worst part of the trip, especially for me, a novice, was the bumping along the runways of the Municipal airport.

Don't Pity Poor Browns, They Might Fool You

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP)—Baseball's graveyard of a few seasons ago is very much alive and kicking.

To hear some of the St. Louis Browns tell it they've got the fountain of youth pouring a lusty stream now—and they'll prove it.

Handsome Harlond Clift, a lad who has been doing the third base chores for the reviving Browns seven consecutive seasons, was hunted out as the most qualified man on the subject.

"Sure, it's true that a few seasons ago ball players traded into the Brown roster felt they had received the last reprieve before the execution. It was considered the last step before the jumping off place for major leaguers.

"I've seen some good ball players come to the Browns and make their own graves. They would play listlessly, with a sort of 'what's the use?' attitude. Some of them, and I won't mention names, seemed to give their dullest performances in hopes of being traded or sold off the Brown club.

"But gradually we have overcome that feeling.

"I would say that our club of last season was the beginning of the end of this feeling. We had a good club. We proved it. We knocked off those first division clubs—with the exception of Detroit—and would have been up there ourselves had we not run into that bad string of 14 straight losses.

"But we found out that the Browns were coming along.

"Now we have a lot of new faces—Johnny Allen, George Caster, Fritz Ostermueller, Denny Galehouse and a bunch of others. They have a great spirit; they feel the Browns are good and will win. There is no more talk of being shipped to 'the last place Browns.'

"I'll give our manager, Fred Haney, much of the credit for this change.

"He's a great guy with ball players."

The veteran Rip Radcliff, traded off the Chicago White Sox into the Brown fold, had his greatest season last year and lost the American league batting title only by slumping in the last few days.

"We showed our attitude last season when we lost 14 straight but still were in there in a position to win, just as well as lose, all but three of those games. We went out on that fifteenth day behind Vernon Kennedy and whipped the Athletics and then played great ball from there on in.

"If you don't think so, ask some of those first division clubs."

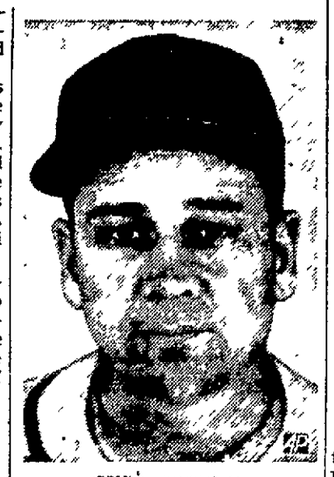
Radcliff, a mild veteran who still beats out a mean base hit, says Haney has had much to do with the change by "insisting on rhythm on the club."



GUS MANCUSO

JOHNNY ALLEN

"We've got four new pitchers now. They're supposed to be gambles just because they had a bad season last year. But maybe the change is all they need. We're all hustling now. We're going to get up there and get the majority of the fans in St. Louis."

Pitcher Kennedy got in his dime's worth.

"We have a different spirit on the club now. The new pitchers confidently feel this is a good spot to come back. None of them have bad arms. Nothing but a bad season behind them. They won once—they can do it again. That seems to be the general feeling around here now. No more of that last place complex."

HE'S IN THE DARK

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—(AP)—Manager Del Baker doesn't know where his Detroit Tigers will finish in the coming American League race, but he cheerfully adds, "neither does anybody else." Instead of predicting, Baker says: "All I can say is that we'll do the best we can with what we have."

CHAPMAN CONTINUES AS TOURNEY FAVORITE

PINEHURST, N. C.—(U.P.)—National Amateur Champion Dick Chapman, red-hot favorite to win the 41st North and South Amateur golf championship, meets Skip Alexander of Durham, N. C., in the feature quarter-final match today.

Chapman eliminated Al Dowtin, Wake Forest, 5 and 4 yesterday.

Cagers Claim Fine Fettle

"We're In Shape," Say Post-Season Hoopsters.

By "WHIZZER" WHITE

Though everything is all set for the melee at Lucas between the Blue Goose Sohians and the Lucas Ex-Hi's, there is some doubt about the condition of the teams, now that the regular season is over.

* * *

To get the low down on the situation a call was placed to Manager Pete Hergatt. "In condition! Your darn tootin'," came back the answer from Pete. "We're always in condition to beat that Lucas bunch. Why, my boys have been waiting for this game.

This left no doubt in our mind, so a call was placed to Bob Crawford to warn him of the things in store for his team. Brother Crawford came back with a shout of reprisal at the crack, that the Sohioans were in condition to beat the Ex-Highs. "In condition to beat us!" shouted Bob, "why those guys will never recover from the grind we give them."

Now that really does leave things complicated! But it looks as though tonight's battle will settle that question at least for the time being.

The preliminary game looks like a tough battle. Bob (Dynamite) Boyd has rounded up a formidable cage squad. As most of the regular Yuncker players could not show, Boyd will use an all-star lineup consisting of Martin Heskett, the erstwhile "Amity Flash," John Adams, Union Hi star and Sam Contra of the Friendly House league.

This team playing under the Yuncker banner will meet the Lucas McCready Furniture team in the opening game at 7.30. The games will be played tonight in the Lucas Hi gym for the benefit of the Lucas Hi athletic fund.

LOU GETS REST

RICHMOND, Va.—(AP)—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh expected to continue to rest Shortstop Lou Boudreau today and give his injured ankle a pre-season test against the Giants in New York this weekend. Bob Feller was due for a final tuneup against the Giants today preliminary to facing the White Sox in Tuesday's opening game.

REDS BEAT SOX

DAYTON—(AP)—Easter shopping apparently made the Cincinnati Reds' pre-season ladies' day experiment yesterday a flop. Only 1,700 forsook the downtown bargain counters to watch the Reds beat the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 2.

RAMROD STANCE PASSE IN ARMY BRITAIN TRAINS

New Training Principle Calls For Head 'Up and Forward.'

HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—Heads up, chins in and shoulders back is out so far as the training of British soldiers is concerned.

Now its "forward and up" for a British soldier's head because that produces the "proper physical coordination," according to Aldous Huxley, British novelist.

The new method of physical training was disclosed in an exchange of letters in the correspondence columns of the British Medical Journal between Dr. Andrew Murdoch and Col. Wand-Tetley, inspector of physical training for the British army, Huxley said. It embodies the principle discovered and formulated by F. Matthias Alexander.

"We can summarize Alexander's conclusions," Huxley said, "by saying that in man, as in other animals, there is a certain natural and correct relation between the head, neck and torso—a relationship which, when it is preserved, guarantees that all the organs and parts of the body shall function harmoniously. Animals in a state of nature tend to retain this correct adjustment instinctively. It is only when human beings interfere with it that they go wrong, as they have done by means of the bad postural habits acquired under the stresses of urban and industrial civilization.

"The correct relation of head and neck to the rest of the body can be obtained when the head continuously and progressively obeys the injunction, 'Forward and Up!'

"If this principle is properly taught, it means that hundreds of thousands of young Englishmen will be shown how to unlearn the bad habits forced upon them by urban and industrial life and will acquire one of the indispensable conditions of health and well-being, a correct and natural use of the body."

Coach Will Test Football Uniform Numbers System

OMAHA, Neb.—(U.P.)—The football fans of the future will be able to tell at a glance the exact position played by every man on the field if a numbering system devised by Ray E. Fee of Omaha finds popularity.

Coach "Skip" Palrang of Creighton University has agreed to give Fee's system a trial next season, and "Duke" Duford, St. Louis U. coach, who is secretary of the Missouri Valley Conference, says that loop will give the plan consideration.

Under the plan, centers would wear numbers ending with "0," guards with "1," tackles "2" ends "3," quarterbacks "4," halfbacks "5," and fullbacks "6."

To simplify things further the right side of the line would receive even first numbers, the left side odd ones. For instance the right guard would be No. 21, 41, 61, or 81, while his colleague on the other side of center would be 11, 31, 51, 71, or 91.

SPRING DUE

LONG BEACH, N. J.—(U.P.)—An early spring is in prospect, according to Capt. Frank Weber, a commercial fisherman.

Weber bases his prediction on the appearance of roe shad off the New Jersey coast.

"Roe shad are not due in these waters for some time," he said. "They arrived early four years ago and we had an early spring. Their arrival now is a sure sign of an early spring for 1941."

DUE to recent findings, meat is fast coming to the front as an important natural source of the B vitamins so essential to all-around fitness . . . All meats—beef, pork, lamb, veal and ham—are 96 to 98% digestible . . . Meat is a rich source of complete proteins and contains important minerals: iron, copper, phosphorus . . . Remember, many of these food essentials proteins, vitamins, minerals are not stored in the body—must be supplied daily in the food you eat. The thriftier cuts provide them as plentifully as the better-known ones . . . See your meat-man—there are meats for every purse and purpose.

AGREEMENT AT FORD EXPECTED

Mediator Predicts Settlement By Nightfall; Soft Coal Talks Continue.

Van Wagoner of Michigan claimed progress on "the one remaining point" necessary to a settlement. He, Dewey and union officials were to confer during the morning.

The governor conferred at Detroit for three hours early today with representatives of the striking United Automobile workers after a union mass meeting last night approved the governor's plan to put the big factory back into production.

The company has sought certain modifications in the plan. Reportedly the management wanted to have a labor board hearing postponed until after an employe election had been held.

Van Wagoner's basic proposal called for returning all employes to their jobs, with the exception of three men whose cases would be arbitrated; resumption of the grievance procedure that was established prior to the strike; and agreement by both company and union to expedite holding a labor board election.

In calling the strike, the CIO-UAW claimed some of its members had been discharged for union activity. The union's original demands included a 10-cent hourly wage increase, a contractural agreement, and substitution of uniformed protection men for the Ford service department. The plant employes 85,000 men, and as a result of shutdown of assembly plants and other establishments, it was estimated that about 200,000 men in all have been made idle by the strike.

Negotiations to settle the tie-up of soft coal mines continued in New York. About two-thirds of the mine operators were reported ready to accept a new contract with the CIO-United Mine workers, raising wages to $7 a day and abolishing an existing sectional wage differential. Federal conciliator John R. Steelman sought, however, to gain an agreement which would put all the 400,000 idle miners back to work.

Bethlehem Steel officials at Bethlehem, Pa., had two new requests for general wage increases. The steel workers organizing committee (CIO) asked 25-cents-an-hour for piece-wage and hourly workers. The unaffiliated employes representation plan union asked a 10-cent-an-hour increase.

There was a four-day strike at the plant recently by the CIO in protest against the ERP annual elections. The CIO contends the ERP is company-dominated.

Negotiations were under way at Milwaukee for wage increases for Allis-Chalmers Manufacuring company in the final phase of carrying out an agreement which settled a 76-day strike by a CIO union.

DIES AT SHELBY

Heart Attack Proves Fatal to Jacob S. Switzer.

SHELBY—Jacob S. Switzer, 84, native of St. Cathines, Ont., died at his home here last night following a heart attack. He was stricken suddenly after eating supper.

Born in Canada, Switzer came to the United States at an early age and made his home in Cleveland. He later moved to Shelby and then to Norwalk where he had lived 20 years before returning here four years ago.

He had been a salesman for a Cleveland concern for a long number of years before retiring. He was a member of Elk lodge.

The widow, Elizabeth, and two daughters, Mrs. W. W. Kline of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. H. D. Shreffler of Shelby, survive.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Saturday afternoon at the Dye funeral home here.

FLEE FLAMES

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— Two men were injured and a third was overcome by smoke today during a fire that swept through the Mayfair hotel here.

Most of the 40 guests ran down a fire escape. A number, however, jumped from upper windows onto the roof of a neighboring building when flames prevented escape down a stairway.

TROOPS ARRIVE IN CITY TODAY

500 Soldiers, More Than 100 Trucks and Cars Due; Stay Over Night at Armory.

officials are aiding the troops in ordering food and fuel.

Bates said that the war department had asked him to supply escort for the soldiers. He also urged all motorists to avoid use of Route 42 in the city after 4 p. m. until the troops had passed.

This contingent being one of the smaller ones, will be quartered at the armory. Larger ones will stop overnight at the Richland county fairgrounds on Springmill street.

Included in the force will be 97 armored scout cars, 25 army trucks, 11 motorcycles, 10 reconnaisance command cars and 17 passenger autos. The 500 men will be commanded by Brigadier General Henry W. Baird.

MANSFIELDER DIES IN CRASH

Max Richard Miller, 17, Killed When Auto Fails To Make Turn Near Shelby.

It was not believed, however, that either was hurt seriously. Both received head injuries and numerous bruises and lacerations, hospital attendants said.

State highway patrolmen said Miller was driving the car, a new coach, and the trio was returning from Shelby to Mansfield. The officers said the car failed to negotiate the curve, swerved onto the berm and careened wildly along the highway for a considerable distance, coming to rest on its side in the highway. Patrolmen were unable to say whether it had turned completely over before stopping.

Young Miller was employed at the Mansfield Plating company plant. He was born in Ashland April 5, 1924, but spent most of his life in Mansfield. His father is proprietor of the Elm Street restaurant in Mansfield. The parents are the only survivors.

The body was returned to the Wappner funeral home where funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday with Rev. Paul H. Saleste, pastor of St. John's Evangelical church, officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

That's Where Agents Found Him —and the Alcohol, Too.

SCRANTON, Pa.—(AP)—Federal agents testified William Lackavage, 30, was really in the doghouse when they called. They added they found four gallons of untaxed alcohol in the doghouse with him.

U. S. Commissioner Jerome I. Myers ordered Lakavage held on a liquor law violation charge.

OCCUPATION OF BELGIUM TOLD ABOUT IN BOOK

'Under The Iron Heel' Was Written By American Who Saw Invasion.

An American caught in Belgium during the German occupation pictures his experiences in "Under the Iron Heel," one of the new books now available at the Mansfield Public Library.

Lars Moen, the author, talked to many German soldiers as well as to citizens before leaving Belgium the last of October, and his first-hand account of conditions and also prevailing European opinions is both readable and convincing.

HANG MY WREATH by Ward Weaver is a rousing story of the Civil war army and civilian life, set in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley. When Captain Hubert Cary of the First Rhode Island Cavalry was ordered to reconnoiter the Valley of Virginia in which dwelt the southern branch of his family, he accepted the mission with misgivings. But from that moment on, he found himself caught in the maelstrom of a beautiful civilization swept by the bitter wind of war. A thrilling tale of romance and adventure.

Walter Havighurst tells a timely and exciting adventure story in his new novel, NO HOMEWARD COURSE. The "Westphalia" looked like an honest ship, but already there were the crews of fine prizes quartered in her 'tween decks when Bernard Merriam and his daughter Linda were taken aboard from a scuttled freighter. Three brave men on the ship played dramatic parts in Linda's life as the raider, hotly pursued by British cruisers dared not put into port.

MORNING IN THE LAND by Jessica Nelson North begins during the presidency of Martin Van Buren and follows in particular, the life of Dick, son of a mid-west pioneer family, as he grows to manhood, becomes a teacher, is held captive in the northern woods, and falls in love with a white girl who had grown up with the Indians

OTHER FICTION: BETWEEN TWO WORLDS by Sinclair; DEATH IN ECSTASY by Marsh; MILAN GRILL ROOM by Oppenheim.

Before writing BEHIND GOD'S BACK, Negley Farson traveled through central and south Africa and along the eastern coast, by ocean, road, river, lake and mountain trail, and talked to inhabitants both native and foreign. He observed evidences of well-organized German penetration, of English indifference, and of many native or racial problems. He heard different stories from Smuts, Pirow Hertzog, and Malan, but concluded that "it is under the Englishman that the native will have the best chance of progress in Africa."

KABLOONA by Gontrau Poncins is a Frenchman's story of his months among the Eskimos in the most inaccessible Canadian arctic regions, mainly on King William island. Living intimately with the Eskimos, he shared their life as far as was possible for a man from another civilization, and attempted to think as they did. His book is of psychological interest for its contrast of mentalities and is illustrated with drawings, photographs, and color plates

LET MY PEOPLE GO by Henrietta Henkle is the story of the underground railroad and the growth of the abolition movement Dramatically and indignantly written, the book retells in well documented detail the history of the movement for Negro freedom which spread so rapidly and involved many leading citizens, and especially the "railroad" which was responsible for the escape of many Negroes.

OTHER NON-FICTION: CANNIBALS AND ORCHIDS by Miller; OUTDOOR COOKING by the Brown; CHOOSING A COLLEGE by Tunis; DOCTOR AND HIS PATIENTS by Hertzler; SQUADRONS UP by Monks; ART OF PRACTICAL THINKING by Weil; WORKERS BEFORE AND AFTER LENIN by Gordon; WAR LETTERS FROM BRITAIN by Forbes-Robinson. RIDDLE OF THE REICH by Williams; FASHION ILLUSTRATION by Schmuck.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Blennerhassett Island near Marietta was the scene of a very exciting conspiracy in pioneer days and its story is told in a new book for children at Mansfield's public library. Another Ohio story for younger readers has also been added to the library collection.

THE SECRET OF BLENNERHASSETT, by Rupert Sargent Holland Stephen and Janet Pryde built their new home along the Ohio River about the same time that Harmon and Margaret Blennerhassett built their beautiful mansion on Isle de Beau just below Marietta. Johnny Appleseed was a frequent visitor at the Pryde home. Both Stephen and Harman became involved in Aaron Burr's conspiracy and the conflicts it caused in that community

THE COWHIDE TRUNK by Eleanor Weakley Nolen — When Nancy Hunt was nine she was allowed to go to Cincinnati with her father to buy what the family would need during the next year. Runaway slaves made the canal trip very exciting. The loss on the return trip of the cowhide trunk which held all their packages would have been very serious except for the help of Johnny Appleseed.

SUSPECT HELD

Alleged Check Forger to Face Zanesville Charges.

Mansfield police announced today that a colored man arrested last night in Zanesville in connection with the forging of several checks was obviously the same man who forged three checks here Tuesday.

Zanesville police picked up a Columbus man for attempting to pass worthless checks in the same manner as those passed in Mansfield.

The colored man here Tuesday called three soft drink and beer companies by telephone and placed orders to be delivered at the residence of Dr. H. F. Mills. Following the call, a man appeared at the offices of the company with a check larger than the amount needed for the order. The change given in return was pocketed by the colored man. Police hold two worthless checks totaling $47.

DECISIVE FIGHT BEGINS; NAZIS MEET BRITISH

Battle Starts In Northern Greece as Panzers Push Across Yugoslavia.

gram from Istanbul said many members of the Yugoslav royal court had arrived by plane in Turkey and that 17-year-old King Peter II was expected to follow.

The boy king seized the throne in a bloodless coup March 27, two days after the pro-Axis regime of Regent Prince Paul had signed Yugoslavia into membership in the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance.

A Swiss newspaper, the Geneva Tribune, said in a dispatch from Berlin that Belgrade had fallen.

A B. E. F. communique said that Nazi panzer forces had reached Yanitza, 35 miles northwest of captured Salonika, but that "resistance to the German advance is stiffening in southern Yugoslavia."

The British communique said the situation in eastern Macedonia—the locale of the so-called Greek "lost army" trapped by the German seizure of Salonika—was "obscure but characterized by the magnificent resistance of the Greeks."

Previously, the Germans had claimed officially that the Greek east wing had surrendered and that 80,000 Greeks had been taken prisoner.

A special communique by the German high command declared several Yugoslav divisions had been "shattered" and 10,000 new prisoners taken. Twenty thousand already had been reported captured.

The new threat to Greece sized up as an attempt to flank strong British-Greek defense forces strung out along the Greek peninsula from fabled Mt. Olympus, near Salonika, to Chimara, on the Adriatic sea coast—and possibly to cut off Greek troops still fighting against the Italians in Albania.

British RAF reports disclosed that the Germans had reached the angle of the Greek-Yugoslav-Albanian frontiers, in a drive toward the northern Greek town of Phlorina.

An RAF communique said British warplanes had bombed and machine-gunned a motor transport column near Bitolj, in southwest Yugoslavia, seven miles above the Greek frontier.

"Armored columns on the road between Phlorina and Prilep were bombed successfully from a low altitude," the RAF said.

Phlorina is 20 miles south of Bitolj. Prilep is 25 miles northeast of Bitolj.

Two Nazi salients thus have been driven across Yugoslavia's 100-mile "waist" through captured Skoplje, at the head of the Vardar river valley.

Nazi quarters in Berlin, however, acknowledged that fierce fighting still was in progress on the southern Yugoslav front, declaring:

"The Serb army is being systematically wiped up or even blotted out. But the pity is that among troops fighting hardest are Croat formations whom the Serbs wisely took out of Croatia and put on the southern front."

Both are Yugoslav states, Serbia in the south and Croatia in the north.

An independent state of Croatia was proclaimed yesterday, and the new premier Gen. Sladko Kvaternik issued a command:

"I order every Croat regiment to report to Zagreb (the capital of Croatia) to take the oath of allegiance."

The new Croatia emerged as a new link in Adolf Hitler's European order while Hungarian troops moved over the border to occupy territory Hungary lost in the World war.

The British said ten German air raiders were shot down in nocturnal attacks on Coventry, Birmingham, London and other sections of England. They said considerable damage was done in the west Midlands, where heavy casualties were feared.

The RAF, meanwhile, struck at the Ruhr valley of Germany and at the German naval base at Brest, France. The Germans said the attacks on western Germany were light.

Many were feared dead in the raids on Coventry and Birmingham.

In the Far East, unconfirmed reports said the Japanese-dominated government of Thailand had been overthrown and a pro-British regime established.

On the African war front, the British reported they were massing great numbers of troops in the Libyan desert—apparently in the Tobruk sector—and preparing for a major battle to stem the sweep of a combined German-Italian counter offensive.

Egyptian Premier Hussein Sirry Pasha said the British high command was pouring reinforcements into North Africa and had "absolute confidence" of the outcome of the rekindled desert strife.

Hitler's high command said that German and Italian troops were pursuing the British after capturing Derna, and that Axis planes had repeatedly bombed British troop concentrations near Tobruk.

FDR RE-OPENS RED SEA FOR U. S. SHIPPING

Order Will Permit Vessels To Sail to Suez Canal; Price Control Set.

sea end of the canal. A railroad runs from Ismalia to Port Said.

He said that United States vessels can transport materials to the canal area for non-belligerents—Egypt for instance. As for delivery of supplies in the canal area for transshipment to a belligerent power, Mr. Roosevelt said that is a matter of some controversy.

FDR Signs Order For Price Control Agency

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—President Roosevelt today signed an executive order creating a new price control agency to be known as the office of price administration and civilian supply. He named Leon Henderson as head of the new agency.

The new price control unit will be a part of the office of emergency management, coordinating organization which now includes the office of production management and the national defense advisory commission.

The order merges into the office of price administration and civilian supply the existing defense organizations orginally set up by the president to deal with price problems growing out of the rearmament program.

These offices include the defense commission's consumer division headed by Miss Harriet Elliot and the price stabilization division headed by Henderson.

The president pointed out that of the seven original units set up in the defense commission only two have been moved over to the office of emergency management. Those are the agriculture division directed by Chester Davis and the transportation division headed by Ralph Budd.

U. S. READY TO ARM GREENLAND

Army, Navy Expected to Begin Work on Air Bases at Once as New Defense Link.

Because the flights raised the possibility of significant German military interest in the island, indications were that the fortification work would be pressed as rapidly as supplies and equipment could be transported.

The agreement provided this country could construct, maintain and operate "such landing fields, seaplane facilities and radio and meteorological installations" as are necessary to prevent Greenland from becoming "a point of aggression against nations of the American continent."

In some authoritative quarters it was suggested the Greenland development could result in aiding Britain to solve the problem of protecting her North Atlantic convoys. Naval forces which the United States presumably will operate between this country and the island, it was said, might watch over the convoys unofficially to that point.

Where the escorting American vessels left off, British warships could pick up the cargo trains to escort them to the British Isles.

Naval and military experts said establishment of the Greenland bases, as part of the line of fortifications stretching 4,000 miles south to British Guiana, would provide a virtually impregnable protective shield against aggression from across the Atlantic.

Moreover, it was said that a shield around the entire western hemisphere would be made air-and-sea tight with the expected development of more plane and ship bases in the Pacific.

The United States, through friendly agreements with neighboring governments, has achieved this design for defense:

1. Greenland's air bases and defense works to guard against any aggression from the far north.

2. Air and naval bases—acquired from Britain in Newfoundland, Bermuda, Trinidad, The Bahamas, Jamaica, St. Lucia, Antigua and British Guiana, to protect the Atlantic seaboard, Central America the Panama Canal and northern South America.

3. Rights under a Mexican-United States pact enabling American military planes to use Mexican airfields, thus affording a quick aerial route to the Panama Canal.

4. Rights under a Canadian-United States pact enabling American military planes to use a string of Canadian airfields.

5. Expanding defense establishments in Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines to protect the western coast and territories.

Mansfield Girl Gets Her License

The above photograph, taken at municipal airport yesterday afternoon shows 19-year-old Betty Mae Thompson, Mansfield's first feminine pilot receiving her license before going aloft with her first passenger. The government permit, issued by the CAA, is being presented to her by James R. Harrington, port manager, who gave her instructions, and her flight tests two weeks ago. She is the first feminine pilot to graduate from the Civil Pilot Training program, sponsored here by the Mansfield chapter of the National Aeronautical association. William Murry, News-Journal city hall reporter, was her first passenger.

TURKISH ARMY KEY BARRIER

Stands Between Nazis and Expansion Towards Oil Fields of Iraq.

of Britain in Adolf Hitler's plans.

One reason frequently advanced for Hitler's move into Greece was that he simply wanted to carry out his pledge to go after the British army whereever it appeared.

The British have indicated that they would have welcomed a more outspoken reaction from Turkey when the Nazi Panzer forces drove through Greece.

The thought seems to be that even if the Turks merely sit behind their guns and wait, they still count as an imposing obstacle protecting the rich oil fields that help keep the British navy under way in the Mediterranean.

Enigmatic Rusia is counted by many British as an equally important hindrance to Hitler's eastward drive.

Well-informed sources in London have asserted that many German agents have been active in French-mandated Syria recently.

Syria would provide another logical station on the Berlin-Baghdad line, but that country lies between the Turks on the north and British forces in Palestine on the south.

London official quarters agree that the German drive across northern Libya, rolling back British holding forces, has raised a serious problem for the middle east command.

They assert, however, that impending final collapse of Italian resistance in East Africa should soon release large forces to deal with the Libyan emergency.

home nearby. The burning residence, owned by Mart Bright of Mifflin, was destroyed at a loss estimated at $2,000.

The mayor directed the work of his volunteer force before the arrival of firemen. Several trees were cut down and a bucket brigade formed to maintain the water supply for the chemical truck.

Blaze Destroys Home Near Shelby

SHELBY—Sparks from a smouldering grass fire were believed by Fire Chief Eugene Shull of the Shelby fire department to have caused a blaze that destroyed the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Keiser, six miles south of here at about 7:30 a. m. today.

The fire, beyond control when apparatus from Shelby arrived on the scene, burned the frame structure to the ground. The loss, partially covered by insurance, was estimated by Shull at $4,500.

The blaze was discovered by neighbors who notified Mr. and Mrs. Keiser who were eating their breakfast in the kitchen.

With the aid of neighbors, Keiser and his wife were able to remove part of their personal belongings from the flaming structure. Most of the household good was burned.

DAIRYMEN MEET

NEWSMAN ON FIRST PLANE RIDE AS GIRL'S FIRST PASSENGER

ton, airport manager and government instructor, warned me that the trip might be a bit bumpy and smoky up above, he forgot to tell me about the runways. Deep ruts in them gave me one of the bumpiest rides I ever experienced.

Thelma—I can call her Thelma now—began her training two years ago at Harrington's twice-weekly ground school held in the rear of a downtown storeroom. Later when the government called for civilian pilots, she was the first to make an application.

She studied hard and about five months ago made her first training flight with Harrington as trainer. Later with ten hours in the air, she made her first solo flight. Since then she has piled up another 40 hours.

Thelma graduated from Mansfield senior high school last year. She confided to me that she had always wanted to fly. She said her mother objected a bit at first but since then doesn't worry too much.

And she shouldn't. I did enough worrying yesterday for any of Thelma's friends. My fears were unfounded, however, because the trip was much safer than many I have taken in autos.

We left the ground smoothly. In fact, we were 100 feet up before I discovered we had started. Thelma leveled the ship off at about 500 feet and then began to point out district landmarks.

From above, Mansfield and the surrounding country looked like a model village, such as shown in "The World of Tomorrow" exhibit at the New York World's Fair. Fields looked like the treads of large green auto tires while the people and moving vehicles appeared as toys.

Traveling slightly more than 100 miles an hour, we moved in over Charles Mill dam, where Thelma practiced a few spirals. Starting at about 1,000 feet she spun downward to about 250 where to my great relief, she leveled off again.

Back over the city, she pointed out the Richland county courthouse, the News-Journal building, the parks and schools. Using many of them as imaginery pylons, she did "figure-eights" much to my discomfort but satisfaction.

Only once did I wish for terra firma and that was when she demonstrated the ship's versatility. She did a power curve and power dive somewhere west of the city which still rings my ears. I suspected that she thought I was taking my first trip too calmly and wanted to shake me up.

Thelma received her license or "ticket" along with eight youths. She, however, is the only woman pilot in the district qualified to carry passengers.

Others getting the "tickets" were Richard Grudier, Anton Le Tang, Melvin Mullis, Wilbur Shafer, Perry Wilson and Dwight Terrell all of Mansfield; Carl Culler, Lucas; and Louis Grate, Ashland.

After taking my breath away with the power dive, Thelma whisked me back over the airport, slid the plane over to the right, and suddenly brought the field up in my face.

"That," she assured me, "is simply one of the tricks in losing altitude fast." I believed her.

Her handling was perfect. After a few spirals over the field to warn off other planes, she came in from the southern part of the field, setting the plane down without a bump. Needless to say, I had enough for a while, but Thelma, she had her license now and immediately took another passenger aloft.

Next week, I'm going to try flying again. Maybe I'll bring back my stomach.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, APRIL 11, 1941.

Darkness Has Again Descended

SUCH darkness as descended on Calvary during the tragic occurrences of that fateful day which observance of Good Friday commemorates, again enshrouds much of the world.

The intervening centuries have failed to accomplish the changes in human conduct which would dispel the darkness of war and establish an era of peace on earth.

Today, to greater extent than ever before in the memory of living men, the future is shadowed by the threat of a brutal force which seeks domination over all mankind and which would at least temporarily blackout civilization's slow advancement from the savagery that now assails it.

As the thoughts of millions are concentrated on the significance of Good Friday, and as members of many churches gather in union services, it is gratifying to realize that the recognized and protected right of religious freedom is among the blessings enjoyed in America—and that each is privileged to worship God in accordance with the dictates of his own conscience.

This spirit of religious tolerance is among the fundamentals of democracy which mark a departure from any of the forms of over-government which impose religion by edict and otherwise hamper individual freedom of thought and action.

The lenten season, now drawing to a close, is a particularly fitting time to reflect on the spiritual phase of human life—and to recall that this nation was founded on a belief in God and that national leadership makes willing acknowledgement of dependence on divine guidance.

Sabotage Disclosed In Ford Strike

NOW that the subject is being so generally discussed, and in order that the matter may be clarified in the public mind, it seems quite appropriate to ask authorized spokesmen for organized labor to state the attitude of both the A. F. of L. and the CIO as to rioting, personal violence and property destruction in connection with strikes and picketing.

This question has special timeliness in association with the report of investigators that an estimated $300,000 damage was caused by sabotage in Ford's River Rouge plant, and an earlier disclaimer by R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO that strikers had caused any damage.

Damage, according to investigators, was done to valuable precision instruments, jigs, dies and essential tools, some of which will require months for replacement. It was also revealed that hundreds of tons of steel was poured out on a foundry floor as the strike began.

Such acts, as well as the violence pictured at other strike scenes in recent weeks, must be regarded as more befitting the criminal traits of irresponsible thugs than the deliberate procedure of American citizens accorded the privileges of self government.

The national commander of the American Legion, in an address in Mansfield this week, expressed what is also the quite general view of the people of this country when he said: "At no time is there a right to riot. The Legion asks law and order."

Organized labor, through its leadership and by the conduct of its members, should lose no time in indicating concurrence in this view—and in making sure that the derelictions of a few do not cast undeserved stigma on millions of clear-thinking, law abiding union workers.

'American Way' Exemplified

MONDAY AFTERNOON the president of the United States is expected to sit in a packed stadium in Washington for a minor, but traditional part of the program which draws thousands of his fellow citizens together on that occasion.

The president will draw back his right arm, grin for newspaper cameramen, and toss a little, white baseball toward a group of several dozen athletes who will scramble in a most undignified manner for possession of the pellet.

An umpire will dust off home plate, yell "Play ball," and another major league baseball season will be under way. On the following day similar scenes are scheduled in seven other big league ball parks.

All of them will exemplify in striking manner the American way of life, which has taken on so much importance in a year when crowded stadia and the presence of a head of state meant, all too often, that a dictator was about to tell his subjects what he intended to do to enemy nations.

With the Cincinnati Reds again favored to win the National league championship, and the Cleveland Indians regarded as a leading contender for the American league crown, Ohioans should be able to enjoy the American way of life to the full this summer.

Horse Racing Bill Defeated

ADVOCATES of a bill to inject additional politics into horse racing in Ohio have suffered a set-back. The state senate defeated the bill 18 to 12. Among the 18 were this district's two senators, P. H. Rogers and Joseph Jameson.

In effect the bill would have boomed business for the bookies and have hung a few more plums on the political job tree.

One of the provisions was to increase the "cut" to 12 per cent of the mutuel pool at tracks instead of the customary 10 percent, which would have served to drive bettors away from the legal mutuels and into the bookies joints. Another provision would have legalized betting commissioners—bookies—at county fairs. A third would have required tracks to employ $100 per day state appointed stewards.

Children As Cultural Leaders

THE KINDERGARTEN has been creeping up on the university, says John Erskine, musical expert and representative of culture in general. "Parents are being educated culturally by their children." Thus, while parents may go to concerts and art galleries from a sense of duty, their sons and daughters will be there because they really want to.

Well, as the poet Wordsworth said, "the child is father to the man." Or mother to the woman, as the case may be. It rarely happens that in this irreverent and rapid age, the children seem to be doing a more thorough job than usual.

That is, in their own way and as far as they go. The most uncultured or unprogressive father or mother can usually teach these bright youngsters some valuable things they don't learn at school.

More About Schools

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DR. MORTIMER ADLER, University of Chicago faculty member, said that our American schools are a "dismal failure." We asked "What's wrong with 'em?" and have been trying to tunnel our way through the answers ever since. A few particularly challenging answers are given here.

California laws forbid secret high school fraternities and sororities. These laws are printed on the back of many registration cards, to be signed by both parents and students. Yet, even when signed, they are ignored by everyone concerned, even by the high school teachers and principals themselves. And this condition exists in many other states. So what? Who's making our DEAD END KIDS FUTURE LAW BREAKERS?

Says LOIS LARSON—18 years—825 El Camino Ave., North Sacramento, Calif.

Dear Miss Robinson—

I think Dr. Adler is right. And I believe that the 'dismal failure' of our high schools is due, not to a lack of good teachers and books BUT TO THE FACT THAT THEY NO LONGER TEACH DEMOCRACY. TO THE CONTRARY: THEY ENCOURGAE A SYSTEM THAT DEFEATS ALL DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES.

As a young girl, I am not naturally a judge of books, but the ones we use seem fine to me. Also, it is plain that our teachers are better trained than ever before, and that the equipment in even our country schools is superb. We have everything that is necessary to make us a success except one thing—and that is the chance to learn to cooperate with other young people. Never has this been so important.

We all know that education doesn't just imply 'book learnin,' Miss Robinson. We must be trained in human contacts. If we don't learn that in school, where else can we? And every student, whether rich or poor, socially popular or obscure, should have an equal break so as to learn this most important branch of knowledge.

But they don't! And the reason why they don't is because, from Junior Hi up, the school affairs are controlled by small groups of special and preferred students organized in sororities and fraternities, who actually bully the whole student body.

THESE GROUPS ARE NOT CHOSEN ON THEIR MERIT. THEY ARE CHOSEN FOR THEIR PARENTS' POSITION . . . THEIR SPENDING MONEY . . . THEIR FINE CLOTHES. IS THAT THE SPIRIT OF DEMOCRACY?"

The State Law is against such groups and our Senator Swan realizes that they are a real menace because they do not give the average youngster a chance. I certainly wish other grown-ups would join him in his fight for DEMOCRATIC SCHOOLS.

LOIS LARSON.

So do I, youngster. And I'm hereby giving them their chance to say their say right here.

Vaccination Against Whooping Cough.

—By DR. CLENDENING

CAN vaccination against whooping cough be continued successfully after interruption?

The instance cited is that of a child who had one dose of whooping cough vaccine and then, because of a throat infection, the second vaccination was not given on time. Canvalescence was prolonged so that six weeks elapsed and the question arises whether the first dose of vaccine is effective and can count, so that the second and third doses given at this long interval will be effective as if given in the customary week to three weeks apart. (The present accepted procedure is three-week intervals for whooping cough vaccine.)

In general it is true of any immunization procedure that the interval timing of dosage which has been worked out should be observed, and if any interruption occurs—especially one of as much as a month—the entire series should be started over again.

Another question that might be asked is whether the first dose would sensitize the patient so that a second dose at long interval would cause a reaction, more or less severe But authorized Haemophilus pertussis vaccine (Sauer) is said to contain no animal protein whatever and so this danger is eliminated.

Skin Peeling.

What is the new operation called skin peeling?

In cases of deep pitted scars on the face following acne, and in certain other conditions of dark pigmentation of the face of the skin (Chloasma, liver spots) when extensive enough, it is possible to remove or peel the superficial layers of the skin, giving a much improved cosmetic appearance. Normally the upper layer of the skin sheds at a slow rate. The cells of which it is composed move up from the bottom layers of the skin, gradually lose their nuclei, flatten out and finally fall off.

It is possible to hasten this process by chemicals and cause the peeling of deeper cells than normally would shed. A paste containing these chemicals is left on for a short time and then washed off. An inflammatory reaction with peeling occurs. The process is repeated several times. Many very unsightly conditions are removed permanently.

This Is Ohio

ONE of the first ships built at Erie, Pa., for the fleet on Lake Erie to be commanded by Commodore Perry was the schooner Ohio in command of Capt. Daniel Dobbins.

On the day before the battle, Sept. 10, 1813, Captain Dobbins was called into Perry's cabin on his flagship, the located at Put-In-Bay, and ordered to sail immediately for Erie with his schooner Ohio to bring up additional stores and supplies for his fleet. As he sailed past Cleveland next day he heard the sound of guns in the direction of the fleet, but he was under orders and continued his course. The battle had been fought and won before he returned.

It was Captain Dobbins who was commissioned by President Madison to go to Erie and begin work on the Great Lakes fleet.

Timely Editorial

Extending a Bad Law.

With the shadow of Mr. John L. Lewis's strike hanging over it, the senate has passed the bill extending the Guffey Bituminous Coal Act for two more years.

It is worth pointing out once more, if only for the record, that the Guffey act is economically unsound and a dangerous precedent. In the face of the announced program of the administration to combat monopoly, it not only encourages but compels the mine operators to combine, with government help, to fix prices below which no operator can sell except at grave penalties.

It puts an extra charge on consumers everywhere for the benefit of a special group. It involves appalling red tape and the fixing by the government of literally thousands of separate prices. In the end it must inure even the intended beneficiaries, by encouraging resort to competitive fuels such as oil and natural gas and to hydroelectric power. — New York Times.

Yugoslavs Foresaw Nazi Strategy, Planned to Make Stand In South

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—In interpreting war news from the Balkans the basic thing to watch is the amount of advance scored by the Nazis in the extreme south of Serbia and in Greece. Advances in northern Yugoslavia mean nothing.

In fact, the border between northern Yugoslavia and Hungary was not even fortified, and the Yugoslav army always planned to evacuate that area immediately if its own counter-attack were rolled back. This part of the country—Croatia and Slovenia—once under the Austro-Hungarian empire, consists of broad, rolling plains, among the most fertile in Europe, and similar to the corn belt of Iowa and Kansas.

In this section, the Yugoslav general staff did not even build pill boxes; and before the war started, the bulk of the army was evacuated south except for a skeleton force to fight a rear-guard action.

But in Serbia proper, which is in the south, the army worked feverishly to strengthen fortifications along the Bulgarian border. The Greeks also were extremely active.

Chief Allied worry was that the Greeks would be forced to fight on two fronts, and with a much smaller army than the Yugoslavs. This is the point where the greatest shock strength of the Nazi army was thrown—to cut through Greece to the south of the Yugoslav army, thus getting behind it, or to force the Yugoslavs to withdraw, thus exposing the Greek flank.

March to Adriatic.

ANOTHER part of Yugoslavia to watch is Montenegro and along the Albanian frontier. For years, Serbian officers have been itching to march as victors down to the Adriatic. Once in 1915 they marched there defeated. And having no great love for the Albanians and even less for the Italians, they are throwing an important part of the Yugoslav army into Albania.

Note—Yugoslavia, or "Land of the Southern Slavs," is made up of Serbia, Croatia, Slovenia, Montenegro, Dalmatia, Bosnia and Hercigovina—where, at Sarajevo, the last war started. All except Serbia and Montenegro were under the Austro-Hungarian empire before 1918.

Montenegro, or "Land of the Black Mountain," maintained its own king for centuries, never was conquered by the Turks. But in 1918 it joined Yugoslavia, much to the disgust of more independent Montenegrins. The language of all is about the same.

New Defense Taxes.

BIG money gifts are due for a heavier tap in the new defense tax plans now being formulated behind the scenes.

For some years there has been no boost in the gift tax, chiefly because of the argument that it takes at least fifteen months to realize any revenue from such a levy. Until recently congress labored under the hallucination that defense taxes were only temporary. But it is now clear that a lot of additional revenue will be needed for a long time to come, so the gift tax is due for an upward overhauling.

Also certain to be kited again are income taxes, and the so-called "nuisance" taxes—levies on liquor, tobacco, and tickets. Administration chiefs would like to avoid this, but see no other handy source of big revenue. The alternative is a general sales tax, which has considerable backing on Capitol Hill, but is strongly opposed by President Roosevelt.

Present plans call for laying the tax question before congress shortly after the house returns next Monday from its two-weeks recess. The treasury will submit a number of "formulas" for its consideration.

Allis-Chalmers Peace.

FOR 19 hours last week-end, five members of the Defense Mediation Board sat with labor and employers behind closed doors, battling to settle the Allis-Chalmers strike.

The conference began Saturday morning in an atmosphere of undisguised hostility between company officials and strike leaders. There had been over 70 days of labor war, climaxed by street fighting and tear gas. The outlook for agreement was anything but bright.

All that day, into the night, again all Sunday the mediators wrestled with the two groups. Sunday the elevators shut down, conferees climbed five flights to resume deliberations. Angry shouts occasionally punctuated the proceedings.

Then, suddenly, at 7 p. m. there was a loud burst of laughter, and 15 minutes later everyone was beaming. An agreement had been reached.

Actually the peace accord came about 6:30 p. m., at which time Eugene Meyer, publisher of the Washington Post and one of the mediators, drafted a resolution commending William H. Davis, chairman of the mediators, for his exceptional leadership. Meyer showed the proposal to the company officials and they approved it. He then put it up to the union men.

"Did the company officers accept the resolution in toto?" inquired Ed Hall, international representative of the union.

"Well, practically," said Meyer. "They quibbled over one word."

It was this statement that brought the burst of laughter, in which Allis-Chalmers officials joined. Both sides recalled that quibbling over words had characterized most of the two days' negotiating.

Note—Striking illustration of goodwill after the agreement occurred when the union men had to charter a plane from Washington to Milwaukee in order to get the agreement ratified by strikers Monday morning. So union leaders offered to take the company officials home at the same time.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Grace Moore sleeps in what may be summed up as an altogether luxurious bedroom. She lives on Park Avenue, and this room is loaded with cutglass bottles of rare perfumes and jars of all sorts of expensive and desirable creams and lotions. Even the bed, which is luxurious in the DeMille manner, is touched off with a mink throw.

This throw has a history. "It was my first mink coat," explains Miss Moore. "I bought it almost 18 years ago. It was the first time in my life that I felt I could afford a mink coat and I bought it on time."

She patted the little mink pelts as if they were pets. "But you'd never imagine the emotions they've been through. Bea Lillie wore it all one season on tour. Finally I sent it to a furrier and had it cut down to a jacket, and with the left-overs I had mittens and a muff made. In time these became old and I almost threw them away. I couldn't part with it, so sent the jacket, muff, mittens and all the trimmings back to the furrier and had them made into a spread. Now it covers me every night."

This has been a good season for Miss Moore, who is on concert tour at the moment and who will tour this spring with the Metropolitan Opera Company. It is probable that she will go to Mexico City and appear at the National theater there, and she may also make a picture.

WHY Alexander Woollcott wants to be an actor is something his friends cannot understand. He is rich. He is successful as an author, as a reviewer, as a radio raconteur. But he is now touring the country in that bawdy, hilarious caricature of himself, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," and by the way of diversion, had the experience of having $75 "lifted" from his dressing room the other night. He hasn't the least idea who took it.

Call For A Prophet.

What is major and what is
Minor of the things we do
In our busy round? If we
At the time but knew.

If we could but ascertain
Items that we could leave out
Of our routine, we could shift
All our world about.

That some prophet would arise
Who could solve the mystery,
Open our blind eyes so that
We the truth could see.

A Farmer's Diary

Before Sun-Up

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A LOVELY April morning. Great scarlet streaks rise in the eastern sky and converge toward a single point, down back of the wooded hill. There is a glowing yellow radiance where tiny brilliant clouds appear to float in a sea of gold. The trees are animated with scarlet and purple robes. To the north and south the sky is clear, azure blue.

Smoke from our cottage chimney eddies upward like a mighty, growing pillar into the still air. A long thin zone of fog, less than ten feet deep, is across the meadow. Leafless branches of the spreading maples are motionless. An early train rumbles behind the ridge and even the rattle of a farmer's creaking wain is clear on the uneven gravel highway.

My neighbors cattle low as they are let into the stalls for milking. An early hunting dog bays from the farther hill. Down along the furrow at the edge of the stubble field a quail calls musically, "Bob White, Bob White," until the forest slope echoes back his song. The timid mother rabbit along the old rail fence moves cautiously from her temporary hutch to feed upon the fresh moist clover by the road.

From his frosty grassy lair, the meadow lark peals forth his morning song, then rising, happily lights upon a weathered stake and again pours forth his flutey melody. The trilling song sparrow is heard on every hand. It has been singing before the rosy dawn. A noisy bunch of crows fly low across the valley. A killdee screams as it wheels so high in the air that the rising sun, yet invisible to me, reflects a soft glow of pink and rose beneath the white wings.

Concealed within the sedges of the swamp, a ring-necked pheasant calls ecstatically as though the joy of this early morning had given him the urge to rise and sing.

She Loved a Spy + + + + + +

By Sylvia Taylor

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER XXIII

She sat quietly upon the edge of her bunk, smoking a cigarette Paul had given her before she was locked in her cabin. Dear Paul! How kind and strong he was. He was clever too. His job was one of the most important in the country. Upon his capable shoulders rested the safety and lives of millions of Americans. There was a tenderness in her green eyes and a little smile played about her mouth. In the cracked mirror she had seen that her black hair was towsled, her nose shiny, but Paul did not love her for her looks Their romance was beyond all such superficialities.

The ship began to roll and shudder as it met the seas that increased as the night went on. A sharp wind swept the deck. Black clouds raced across the moon and the sea splashed and hissed as it lashed over the prow.

Paul's finger tapped a mesage on the wall. Joan moved closer to the thin boards that separated them and called, "What is it?"

She did not understand his reply but through the porthole she saw that his door was being unlocked. In the dim light of the deck light she recognized Thomas the sailor who had promised to help them.

Presently Paul's head appeared. "Thomas knows where those papers are. We're going to get them."

"Karl will find out," she warned.

"Karl and the captain are drinking below. They won't bother us.

"Take me with you Please! I'm afraid"

Paul hesitated, then said, "All right. Maybe it is safer."

* * *

On deck, Joan had to cling to Paul to prevent the wind from sweeping her off her feet The decks were slippery from the spray and the waves rose like black liquid mountains on both sides of the ship. As they proceeded cautiously, Joan dared not look out into the night. It was total blackness, and sky and water seemed blended into one evil force from which came the howling wind and spray. The sea advanced and retreated like an angry demon and the ship groaned and shivered under the whip of its adversary

At last Thomas unlocked a door. "This is it," he said

Paul drew the curtain over the window "No Don't!' he ordered as Joan reached for a light switch. "We'll use the flashlight"

Silently Thomas crossed the room "They're in here" he whispered indicating a small wall safe. "I know how to open it"

Joan clung to the doorknob to keep her balance A chair slid the length of the cabin as the ship rolled and quivered

Thomas handed the papers to Paul "Do what you like with them! I hate Karl Miller!" In the glow of the flashlight his eyes gleamed

Paul rapidly sorted the papers.

"Aren't you going to destroy them?" Joan asked

"Karl would find out too soon"

"What are you going to do then?"

"I'm going to change them—the plans for the bombing plane at least"

"We should meet the submarine tomorrow," Thomas said, looking fearfully over his shoulder "But with this weather we may be off our course"

Paul seated himself at the small wooden table and handed the flashlight to Thomas "Hold it as steady as possible," he ordered From his pocket he drew a small bottle, a brush, pen and ink

"What are you doing?" Joan asked watching the grotesque shadows cast on the wall as Paul's fingers moved deftly over the paper

"When I get through with these plans they won't know whether it's a bombing plane or a washing machine."

Joan shivered "Karl will kill you if he finds out"

"I don't intend that he shall find out until it's too late" Paul announced grimly. "It's just possible that he hasn't looked at these plans at all since they were stolen He may think he's been double-crossed by the person who obtained them for him at the aircraft factory"

Joan saw the clean square cut of his jaw as he worked swiftly the breadth of his shoulders bent over the desk. The unruly lock of hair that fell out of place when he turned his head How she loved him! Womanlike Joan was not thinking of the storm that raged outside, or the dangerous situation within. Instead her heart was filled with a great tenderness and admiration for the man she loved Her love drove out all fear It shone like a warm light through danger and despair

Once Thomas opened the door to listen, but only the wind greeted them, blowing the salt spray into their faces Joan saw a sharp zigzag of lightning cut the black sky and thunder roared like a mighty god

Thomas shook his head This is going to be a bad one, he predicted, forcing his shoulder against the door to close it

Joan wondered what Karl Miller had done to Thomas Was he too, an innocent victim of circumstances beyond his control How many others had Karl absorbed into his evil scheme through such methods? Thomas was a middle-aged man his face was gentle except for the eyes, which became dark with rage when Karl's name was spoken

The rain beat against the ship now in a new assault. A glance at her watch told Joan that it was almost one o'clock. Thomas had said tomorrow they would contact the submarine.

Paul finished his work and replaced the plans carefully in the safe. Joan was surprised to see him put the other papers back in their respective envelopes

"Aren't you going to keep them?"

"I'll get them later. They've told me a great deal already. Mainly that the head of this outfit is in Mexico. Somewhere around Mazatlan"

"Yes! Remember those letters to Mexico Karl dictated?"

"I remember," Paul said, frowning.

"But if we are only going as far as Mexico why are we meeting a submarine?"

"These papers are probably going to Europe," Paul explained as he shut the safe

Thomas nodded "That's right. That's the way Karl always does it Then they can't prove anything"

Paul threw the circle of his flashlight upon the door "I can prove it this time"

"That's what some of the others thought," Thomas whispered, "but I've never seen anyone double-cross Karl and live to tell about it!"

"I will" Paul said cheerfully "And so will you"

Joan marveled at his courage The whole responsibility was on his shoulders Whatever his plan, he confided in no one If his nerve ever wavered, he gave no outward sign of it

"Take it easy," he advised the frightened Thomas "You mustn't let Karl break you down. Everything depends upon his not finding out what has gone on in here tonight"

"I'll see him dead before I'd tell him," Thomas muttered

"Let's get out of here," Paul said, taking Joan's arm

The three of them made their way back towards Joan's cabin The storm was at its height Ponderous waves rose like giants from the angry sea and the wind shrieked as it wrapped itself like a great hand about the ship and shook it convulsively Joan's foot slipped once on the wet deck and she was flung headlong against the rail Paul's hand seized her and drew her back to safety. Thomas hurried ahead of them showing the way They dared not use the flashlight and they were enveloped by the wind and the rain and the darkness

They crowded into Joan's small cabin Thomas stood by the door listening "I guess Karl won't come on deck on a night like this," he said

"There's nothing to do now but wait for morning," Paul said "And I want you to get some sleep, Joan" He put his arms tenderly about her shoulders "Will you try, honey? Thomas and I will be right in the next cabin Knock on the wall if you need me"

"All right," Joan promised, but she hated to see him go The cabin was dreary and frightening in the storm The light on deck had been extinguished and the darkness was ominous Only with the flashes of lightning did the room light up and the grotesque brilliance then was even more terrifying than the dark

She lay down and wrapped herself in the quilt She could not sleep The violent motion of the ship threw her from one side of the bunk to the other.

Was Paul asleep? Or talking with Thomas planning a means of escape? But how could they escape from a ship in midocean? What possible means of escape could there be? Karl was certainly not fool enough to allow three people to get away from him under such circumstances To Joan it seemed hopeless, and if Paul failed, Karl might put him on the submarine as he had threatened—or worse

"Nothing like that will happen," Joan told herself. Paul had said that Karl was bluffing. She must believe him

Wide-eyed she lay awake listening to the thunder and the wild hiss of water as it flooded the deck. The sensitive ship seemed like another human being as it fought its valiant battle against the storm. Creaking and groaning, it pitted its strength against the double blows of wind and wave.

Dawn. The sea had subsided but rain still fell from clouded skies into the gray water It was misty melancholy rain that filled the air with a penetrating dampness Joan shivered in her bunk and drew the quilt closer about her shoulders

Outside Thomas had reappeared at his post and paced the wet deck with measured tread, his sharp eyes searching the seas

It was seven o'clock when Paul and Joan finally went to the small lounge which served as a dining room, and Thomas brought their breakfast

Food tasted good It was a relief to have such cool weather after the tropical heat, but Joan was surprised that she could eat and enjoy it She knew that today would doubtless bring a crisis in their affairs, but seeing Paul with his quick reassuring smile made it impossible to be afraid

"Any news?' Paul asked as Thomas poured the coffee

"Karl is with the captain," the sailor reported "They've communicated with the submarine by radio We should meet them in three or four hours"

Paul rose. "Do you think you can keep Karl occupied in the captain's quarters for a few minutes? I'm going to the radio room"

"I'll try. But the radio operator is a tough guy. Doesn't speak a word of English either. He'll turn you right over to Karl"

Paul smiled his most professional smile. "I don't think so."

"Be careful," Joan begged, knowing that to ask for an explanation would be useless.

Paul bent down to kiss her "Don't worry, dear. I know what I'm doing I'll be back in about twenty minutes."

When he had gone, Thomas paused in the doorway "He should be more careful. He doesn't even carry a gun!"

"Karl took his gun away, and if he had another Karl would find it."

Thomas came closer. "But if you had a gun Karl wouldn't suspect"

"What do you mean?" Joan whispered.

Thomas touched his pocket. "I have one here. I've had it for the last month, but it doesn't do me any good. If I gave it to Mr. O'Malley, Karl would find it but you might be able to hide it away May come in handy."

Joan was thinking rapidly, not of herself but Paul. It would be a safeguard for both of them. "Give it to me then," she told Thomas.

He handed it to her and she put it in her pocket

"Good luck!" he said and was gone.

Joan did not tell Paul about the gun She was afraid he would not want her to have the responsibility But it was up to her since she was the only one who could conceal the weapon. She felt that Thomas agreed with her and she saw relief in his worried face when she did not mention it to Paul.

She remembered the last occasion she had held a gun in her hand The time Karl shot Eric and made her pick up the gun to have her incriminating fingerprints on it. She remembered her naive trust in obeying him, her complete bewilderment when he turned upon her and branded her as Eric's murderer. She hated Karl Miller. Her fingers touched the cold steel with a sense of satisfaction

TECHNICALITY DELAYS WATER LINE PROGRAM

Omission of Emergency Clause In Ordinance Causes 30-Day Halt of $18,000 Program.

Council's much discussed ordinance to provide for the construction of $18,000 worth of water lines on various streets in the city suffered another setback today, although the ordinance has already passed.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley informed Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton that the contract awarded the Central Foundry company for pipe to be used on the project could not go into effect for at least 30 days.

Although C. N. Shultz, chairman of the water committee, asked that the ordinance be passed as an emergency measure and council complied, the omission of an emergency clause in the ordinance itself, makes it necessary for a 30-day wait before the ordinance goes into effect.

Crafton said today that Central Foundry, low bidder with $9,080.37 for pipe and fittings for the contract, would maintain the present price but would not make delivery until after the necessary period. This, he said, would save the city money because of rising pipe costs.

The ordinance was first drafted without any provision for the definite streets to be improved or for the distribution of labor or material cost. An amended ordinance containing the names of several streets was passed Tuesday night.

Crafton said that work would also start soon on the Park avenue east-Wayne street low pressure $20,000 water line. Progress will be somewhat slow because of the drain on WPA labor by private industries benefitted by national defense contracts.

FUEL OIL FLOOD

MUSKEGON, Mich.—(U.P.)—Charlie Chin, a Chinese laundryman, thought he smelled a foreign odor as he stepped into the basement, and when he found himself knee-deep in 1,600 gallons of fuel oil, he knew something was wrong.

An investigation revealed that an oil distributor made a mistake in his hose connections during a night delivery and instead of attaching his truck line to a storage tank made connections with a pipe leading to Chin's basement.

75 NEW CASES OF MEASLES ON CITY'S LISTS

Rehder Reports Increase In 10 Days; 159 Stricken During Six Weeks.

More than 75 cases of measles have been reported in Mansfield in the past ten days, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, announced today in conjunction with his monthly report for March In March, 84 cases were reported bringing the total for the past six weeks to 159. Only one case was reported prior to March.

Dr. Rehder said that the peak of the epidemic had not been reached and probably would not until late in the month. Last year only seven cases had been reported by this date.

Throughout the state, 10 948 cases were reported from March 1 to 15 and 16.980 from March 16 to 31. Last year only 33 cases had been reported in the state up to this date.

Dr. Rehder believes that the disease, which travels in a three-year cycle, will not reach anywhere near the proportions of that of 1938 when 684 cases were reported.

The commissioner also reported seven scarlet fever cases, four more than February but 47 less than for March 1940 Whooping cough was reported in five cases in March, one less than in February and 29 less than in March, 1940.

Deaths reported for the month in the city totaled to 51, or 14 more than in February, making a total of 139 for the year to date.

Dr Rehder also gave his February report for the county Twenty births and 26 deaths were reported Births for the year to date total 45 and deaths 62

Nineteen cases of chickenpox were reported in the county in February a drop of 13 from January Scarlet fever reported five after a spotless record for January No measles cases were reported and 36 cases of whooping cough an increase of 17, were recorded

Rehder also announced that O P Wervey and O A. Fritz were reappointed members of the board of plumbing examiners

COUNTY STARTS REPAIR WORK ON RURAL ROADS

Winter Harder on Highways Than Any Other In Recent Years, Engineer Says.

Richland county has started repairing its winter-damaged roads, but County Engineer Howard Sword said the work for the present at least will be limited to filling of deep ruts with stone and slag so roads will be passable

"For no particular reason the past winter was harder on roads than any we have had in years and in some places the bottom has dropped almost completely out of the roads," the engineer said.

"Until the ground dries out, about all we can do is put stone in the deepest holes and ruts to let traffic through," Sword said. 'Later we will start rebuilding the worst roads."

He said Trimble road west of the city, was one of the hardest hit by the freezing and thawing In some places the surface has completely disintegrated and the road is almost impassable, the engineer added.

"Occasionally we have a year that is harder on roads than others and this is one of them," he asserted.

There was less rainfall than usual and no unusually cold weather, but the melting snow apparently went deeper into the road base, softening it, Sword pointed out.

The engineer estimated recently that it would require more than $156,000 to put the county's roads in good condition.

BOMB STRIKES GIRL

LONDON—(U.P.)—A direct hit on her head by an incendiary bomb killed 18-year-old Mavis Williams as she walked in a village street during an air raid. The bomb was dropped by a lone enemy raider.

Berlin Opera House In Flames

Taken during the blackout that darkened Berlin while waves of British bombers blasted the city, this dramatic picture of the Berlin State Opera house in flames was radioed from the German capital to the United States. The famous building was gutted by the flames set by British bombs, Berlin reported, after the R. A. F. planes had swept back and forth across the city in the heaviest raid of the war on the German capital. In addition to the opera house, which was Adolf Hitler's favorite place of relaxation, many other famous buildings were wrecked or damaged.

NEW SLANT

Pastor Declares Divorces Peril To Nation.

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)—Widespread and "easy" divorce is laying the basis for collapse of America just as surely as could war, famine and pestilence, according to Rev. John B. Fee, Philadelphia high school history teacher.

"Plague and death may ravage a country more quickly, but equally certain, if slower, will be the collapse of that nation whose legal machinery encourages divorce, birth control and conjugal infidelity," declared Father Fee.

"While simultaneous polygamy is forbidden, consecutive polygamy on a vast scale has been made possible by more than 50 causes for divorce, with their unlimited interpretation," the clergyman asserted.

LUMBERJACK

BOSTON—(U.P.)—Although queer requests are not unusual, officials of the New England Museum of Natural History were startled when a correspondent asked to borrow "a mounted American lumberjack." Research showed what really was wanted was a mounted American amberjack—a species of fish.

EASTER BUYING HIKES RECEIPTS

Record Sale of New Cars Also Boosts Tax Revenues.

Easter buying and record sales of new automobiles increased Richland county's sales tax receipts to $16,331 for the final week of March, a gain of nearly 60 per cent over the corresponding week last year.

The county's sales tax collections to April 1 amounted to $142,131 as compared to $127,637 for the first three months of 1940.

With every large county in the state showing marked gains in receipts for the last week in March, total receipts in Ohio gained nearly $350,000 over the same week of 1940, State Treasurer Don Ebright reported.

'GHOST' APPEARS

PAINESVILLE, O.—(U.P.)—Ralph W. Clark, a transient, came late to inquire about his number in the draft, but Lake County Sheriff James Moloney didn't expect him at all.

Clark found that he had been listed in the sheriff's records as dead for more than a month. A body found in a burning barn at Mentor, O., was "identified" as Clark's by a left shoe, a necktie and a pair of glasses.

FAVOR UNIFORMS

ATHENS, Ga.—(U.P.)—University of Georgia co-eds think "there's something about a soldier" and accordingly 60 per cent voted that the male students be required to take four years of compulsory military training.

The men, however, don't take to the idea with the zest of the females. Only 40 per cent voted for the four year training proposal.

MINE OPENED

PORTERVILLE, Cal.—(U.P.)—A new tungsten mine has been developed in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains in the San Joaquin valley.

Congress Sees U. S. Buying French Ships

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Such Interesting People.
(And It's the Little Things that Fascinate You.)

VICTOR MATURE requested an upstairs dressing room at the Alvin theater because the only exercise he gets (aside from his daily track stint around the Cub Room) is running up and down the backstage stairs 12 times during each performance of "Lady in the Dark." That stair-climbing keeps his torso trim. . . .

Kilgallen.

Bette Davis still hasn't outgrown her native New England modesty. Some weeks ago Mark Barron, the news service scribe (whose wife, Erin O'Brien Moore, once worked at Bette's studio), interviewed the actress. When the interview was over, Bette said to Mark:

"Your wife had the next dressing room to mine when she was at Warner's. I don't think she'd remember me, but if she does, give her my regards!"

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, jr., was a backstage visitor at "Arsenic and Old Lace" the other matinee. The character she found most intriguing in the homicidal idyll was John Alexander, who plays the daft Brewster brother who thinks he is Teddy Roosevelt.

Mrs. R. was impressed by the remarkable resemblance between actor Alexander and her famed father-inlaw. She congratulated him on the restraint with which he plays the part and assured him that when he is clothed in the frock coat he is the spittin' image of T. R. as a young man.

Bing Crosby has fallen into the habit of wakening visitors at his Delmar rancho at 5:30 a. m. by serenading them under their windows. The guests usually are delighted by the serenade, but not by the hour—but Bing tries to get everyone to see his horses work out at dawn. They look so much better than they do on the track at 2:30 post time! . . .

* * *

Milton Berle, that wag, wires me that Louis Shurr has a new racket. He's smuggling comedians into Bette Davis pictures! . . . Gene Tunney never applauds during night club shows—at least, I've never seen him clapping.

Edith Roark owns ten mink coats. She keeps them in the dressing room at her night club and lends them to girl friends with heavy dates.

Paul Lukas still hasn't seen himself in "The Lady Vanishes" . . . Oscar Levant is timid about saying hello to people first. Even though he's met them, he's afraid they don't remember who he is.

Jimmy Roosevelt is a key-chain twirler. . . . Because he was accustomed to grimy surroundings in his poverty-stricken days in Glasgow, Paul Vincent Carroll insists on occupying Frank Case's noisiest, darkest room at the Algonquin. . . .

Renee Carroll, Sardi's carrot-topped hat check girl, won't accept tips from actors she knows are broke—but how can actors who are broke go to Sardi's? . . .

Nita Naldi wears those almond-shaped harlequin glasses offstage. . . . Tommy Tucker doesn't play a new arrangement until his mother says she likes it. . . . The doorman at the Casino Russe—a real old Cossack—used to have a long beard to go with his handle-bar mustache, but it became an occupational handicap. It got caught in a taxicab door!

Some day, maybe, the meek will inherit the earth, although it looks pretty black for them now—except on Broadway, where the biggest shots are the most humble. Take for example that cute old trouper, Victor Moore, who is every bit as gentle and retiring offstage as he is on.

Only a few people know of the incident that happened one matinee day recently when Victor was killing time outside the "Louisiana Purchase" stage door when a gent parked a car at the curb and called to him, evidently mistaking him for a stagehand or hanger-on.

"Hey, mind siting in the car while I make a phone call across the street?" the stranger asked.

"Not at all," the venerable Mr. Moore replied, and obligingly minded the vehicle as curtain time drew perilously close.

Although Ethel Merman, is anything but meek, she is certainly a modest gal filled with modesty about herself and consideration for others.

The ebullient "Hattie" is always "one of the cast" backstage—never acts like the head of it—and has more fun fooling around with the stagehands than playing host to the celebrities who infest her dressing room.

If a new joke is making the rounds, Merman, the cast understands, wants to be in on it.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—There's a notable change in the Nazi-background films being made in this town.

The new emphasis is on adventure and suspense. You'll find both in the two Nazi films now before the cameras, "Underground" and "Man-Hunt."

ROBBIN COONS

"Underground," directed by Vincent Sherman, concerns the workings of the organized, silent opposition to Hitler within his home grounds. "Man-Hunt" (from the novel "Rogue Male") is fiction about a man who is surprised, while out "hunting," with his rifle leveled on the Berchtesgaden recluse.

Fritz Lang, who left Germany in 1933 with a suitcase and practically nothing else to show for his successful years as director and producer, is in charge of "Man-Hunt," and the script is by Dudley Nichols—some guarantee in itself of tense and artful business.

Movie-goers early in the anti-Nazi film craze exhausted the more obvious social implications of the Nazi creed. . . . "The Mortal Storm" most searchingly, with "Four Sons" carrying on the exploration into broken families and friendships. "The Man I Married" contrasted the American point of view. Films like "Foreign Correspondent" emphasized adventure. "Escape," while again projecting the American idea, got much of its potency from the oldest movie thrill device—the chase.

"Man-Hunt" is a chase virtually from start to finish, with romance injected in the person of Joan Bennett. Walter Pidgeon is the hunted Englishman, and George Sanders—a familiar figure to his role—is the Nazi chase-leader.

Although the Nazi subjects have made a cycle, it has been an odd one. Few other cycles have embraced such a wide range of treatments—from the comedy-of-sorts in Chaplin's "Dictator" to the mass tragedy in "So Ends Our Night"; from the "documentary" technique of "Nazi Spy" to the film biography of "Pastor Hall"; from the melodrama of "Foreign Correspondent" to the sociological exploration of "Mortal Storm."

Chatter Corner

(Just jottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.)

Max Stickler walking slowing along Mulberry street enjoying the sunshine. . . . Frank Edwards hurrying to work. . . . Frank Mengert wondering how to get his name in this corner. . . . Eleanor Bond walking along Park avenue west with a puzzled expression on her face.

Richard Hunt returning today to Camp Shelby after a furlough at home because of the death of his father. . . . Atty. Robert Green of Shelby trying the new courthouse elevator.

Norma Sheer, program chairman of the Y. W. C. A., preparing to spend Easter in Chagrin Falls. . . . Friends admiring Dorothy Horchler's new Easter hat.

Charles Harding hurrying through a conversation with Rev. D. N. Roller so he could join rehearsals for a Good Friday cantata. . . . Mrs. Sherman Glessner replying to two friends who called a greeting to her in the dark last night on Mulberry street.

DEMOCRATS HIT GOP TACTICS IN PASSING OF BILL

Protest House Speaker Denied Minority Rights During Appropriation Debate.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—House Democrats today were on record with a formal protest against tactics allegedly employed by the Republican majority this week in passing the administration's $351,867,399 general appropriation bill.

The protest, filed by Rep. John J. Buckley (D-Mahoning), accused the Bricker administration of deliberately appropriating insufficient funds for the biennium at the expense of old age pensioners. Buckley attacked Speaker William M. McCulloch (R-Miami) with the charge that he had collaborated with the Republican side of the house in denying the minority a fair hearing on its attempts to amend the budget measure.

"The speaker of the house," the protest stated, "supported by the Republican majority, has, by the cloture rule on debate, by the refusal to recognize members, by violations of specific rules of this house . . . denied the rights inherent to minority groups in Democratic government and has refused . . . the right to be fairly and justly heard on portions of the bill affecting labor, agriculture, aid for the aged and real estate taxpayers."

The Democrats charged that sums appropriated to the bureau of industrial relations for salaries were insufficient and would make it impossible properly to handle workmen's compensation claims or to employ enough inspectors to audit the books of the 30,000 Ohio establishments under wages and hour laws.

"The appropriation to the division of aid to the aged," the document continued, "is insufficient to carry out the expressed desires of the Republican party and its pledge to increase old age pensions to $40 a month. The ppropriation will permit an increase of about $2 a month in lieu of the $10 monthly pledged by the Republicans."

It was further charged that insufficient appropriations had been voted for the bureau of criminal investigation, for reforestration and agricultural experimentation; while "the amount appropriated to the emergency board is extravagant and dangerous in that it permits the appropriation of this money by the board rather than through specific appropriations by the legislature."

NAZI CHEMICAL TRUST HINTED

U. S. Pushes Probe of Suspected Control of Drug Industry By Germans.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The federal government's investigation of the extent of suspected German control of the drug and chemical industry in the United States and Latin America moved steadily forward today following issuance of subpoenas for the records of four chemical firms and one Swiss banking institution in connection with a federal grand jury inquiry.

Issued under authority of the restraint of commerce sections of the Sherman anti-trust act, subpoenas for the books of the General Aniline and Film Corp., the Sterling Products Co., and Winthrop Chemical Corp., were issued yesterday.

This action followed by a day the issuance of similar subpoenas to the Schering Corp., of Bloomfield, N. J., and the Swiss Bank Corp., of New York.

According to department of justice officials, the inquiry is aimed at determining whether patent pooling, licensing and export agreements between German and American concerns violate the Sherman act.

SEEK TO LIFT RESTRICTIONS

Government Considers Dropping of Limitation On Beet Acreage.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The agriculture department is considering lifting acreage restrictions on this year's sugar beet crop. Dr. Joshua Bernhardt, chief of the sugar section, announced.

A planting allotment of 820,000 acres was imposed this year because of a larger than normal supply of beet sugar, but Dr. Bernhardt said that the administration's desire to do everything possible to assure ample food supplies had caused the reconsideration.

PLANS OUSTER

Secretary of State Indicates He'll Act In Paulding Case.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Secretary of State John Sweeney indicated today he would take steps to oust members of the Paulding county board of elections unless they resign.

The Paulding county grand jury yesterday recommended that the members resign, but they replied they stood ready to defend their action. The jury spent three days investigating alleged irregularities in 12 precincts at the November election.

HE'S 79 TODAY, BUT SUPREME COURT HEAD IGNORES OCCASION

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, whose vitality and keen sense of humor belie his age, reached his 79th birthday anniversary today.

The white-bearded jurist, who has presided over the supreme court for more than 11 years, preferred to overlook the occasion. He told newspapermen he had nothing to say.

Apparently he still adheres to the philosophy of a remark he made a few years ago that he was "going along without reference to the calendar."

There has been speculation over the possibility of the Chief Justice retiring in June at the end of this term, but he has given no indication that he planned to do so. On the contrary friends have quoted him as saying he intended to remain on the court as long as his health permitted.

He appears to be in good health, and he has not missed a day from his court duties since the term began last October. He enters the supreme court chamber with a firm stride, speaks forcefully when neccessary, and keeps the business of the tribunal moving with dispatch.

At times, too, he enlivens the proceedings with flashes of rumor which surprise spectators who had regarded him as stern and austere.

Appointed Chief Justice by President Hoover in 1930, he has presided over the supreme court during perhaps the most turbulent period of its history — climaxed by the congressional battle over President Roosevelt's court reorganization plan.

HOLIDAY STARTS

6,000 Mansfield Pupils Open Spring Vacation Period.

It was the old chant of "no more teachers, no more books" for more than 6,000 Mansfield public school children after today's noon hour. Spring vacation for the pupils started today and continues until one week from Monday, April 21.

Vacation started early for the pupils with a half holiday today so they could attend Good Friday religious services.

Rural school children, however, stayed at their desks today. There will be no spring vacation for them but their summer vacation will start earlier than that for city children.

Rural schools start summer vacation in May and vacations for city schools start in June.

CHARGES FILED

Purse-Snatching Suspects To Be Tried For Murder.

Two of the three youths who allegedly slugged three Mansfield women in purse-snatchings early this year, Harold Cox, 20, and Owen Bickel, 21, of Coshocton, were held at Youngstown today without bond formally charged with the murder of Mrs. Alphonsus Foley, 36, on March 10.

Detective Joseph Ernest said that the woman, mother of six children, was killed in resisting a hold-up. Both youths have admitted a series of purse snatchings and sluggings in northeastern Ohio but each has denied the murder.

Held for investigation are Cox's 14-year-old wife, Jane, and Eileen Sullivan, who gave information to police concerning the youths' activities.

Bickel was returned from Kalamazoo, Mich., last week after he had been wounded in a chase by police following a purse snatching. Cox escaped but later surrendered himself to Coshocton county authorities.

CONDUCT SEDER SERVICE TODAY

Temple Emanuel To Hold Passover Rites.

Rabbi Myron W. Jacobs will conduct a community Seder service at Temple Emanuel to day at 6:15 p. m.

The dinner service in commemoration of the flight of the Israelites out of Egypt is originally a family service. This is the first community service celebrated at Temple Emanuel, Rabbi Jacobs said.

The Seder service welcomes the advent of the Passover, and is a festival of freedom.

At the dinner, ceremonial objects will be used, and the story of the festival and its history will be recounted.

Children of the Temple will take part in the service.

The observance of the holiday lasts one week. During the time, Matsos, or unleavened bread, is eaten in memory of a similar fare which the Israelites ate during their flight from Egypt.

FDR Message Leads to Talk; Nation Would Take Over Danish Vessels First.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt's request for power to take over foreign ships aroused congressional speculation today that the government might commandeer 14 French vessels, including the giant luxury liner Normandie, which now are tied up in American harbors.

In a message to congress yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt asked sweeping authority to make use of foreign ships idle in American ports to forestall a "growing shortage" of shipping facilities. The message, and accompanying legislation, said that "just compensation" would be made for any ships taken over.

There was no immediate expression of opposition to the plan.

First vessels involved under the new "seize-and-pay" program would be 39 Danish ships recently placed under protective custody of the Coast Guard, along with two German and 28 Italian merchantmen.

One administration leader, asking not to be quoted by name, said it would be "sound procedure" to seize the French vessels now in American waters.

This legislator said that the French vessels are of no value to the Vichy government at present. "If we paid them a just price," he said, "it would be a fair transaction all around."

Any vessels acquired by purchase could be turned over to the British for use in hauling American-made military supplies across the Atlantic.

If the German and Italian vessels were declared forfeited they could not be thus transferred because this country is not at war. They could be placed in the American merchant marine, however, making possible the transfer of American vessels to Britain.

City to Use Fire Hose to Clean Up Mansfield Streets

Fire hose will be brought into play by the city street department to defeat a stubborn winter-hardened crust of dirt covering Mansfield streets Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced today.

Crafton said that the regular street cleaning equipment has made little impression of the dirt and that the hose would be tried to attempt to loosen it.

C. H. Heble, street superintendent, said that downtown streets have been cleaned every night since Monday but that little progress has been made. He said that the task was made more difficult by the many cars parked overnight.

Crafton said that it was originally planned to have the streets cleaned by Easter but that the encrusted dirt had made this impossible. If the use of fire hose fails, Crafton said that the city would have to depend on spring rains to do the job.

GIVES EASTER CANTATA TODAY

First Presbyterian Church Choir Present 'Olivet To Calvary.'

One of the best known of all Easter cantatas will be presented tonight at the First Presbyterian church when Mrs. C. O. Anglin directs the church choir and soloists in Maunders' "Olivet to Calvary."

Telling the Passion Week story from Palm Sunday through Good Friday the work is particularly outstanding for its chorus numbers including the famed "March to Calvary," "Droop Sacred Head" which is preceded by a soprano solo, and the impressive "Crucify Him."

Soloists in tonight's presentation will be Leo Hans, tenor, Mrs. Robert Brook, soprano, and Paul Watts, baritone. Organ accompaniment and incidental music will be played by Miss Mabel Zehner. The cantata begins at 7:30 p. m.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BRILLIANCY ON DEFENSE

AMONG THE rarest jewels in all of bridge is beautiful defensive play which can be recognized as such. One of the neatest moves to beat an opponent's contract is the Deschapelles Coup, whereby a player deliberately sacrifices a high card in order to knock out an entry—using up a high card so placed that it seemed otherwise to be a trick winner ultimately. But one of the rarest of the rare is a double Deschapelles Coup, in which the same player makes the same maneuver twice to beat a contract or prevent overtricks.

	♠ Q 5 ♥ A Q 8 ♦ A Q J 9 7 5 ♣ 10 6
♠ 6 2 ♥ 9 6 4 3 ♦ K 8 6 ♣ Q J 4 3	N. W. E. S.	♠ A 7 4 ♥ K J 5 ♦ 10 3 2 ♣ K 9 7 5
	♠ K J 10 9 8 3 ♥ 10 7 2 ♦ 4 ♣ A 8 2

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♦	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♦	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♠

That same contract was reached, by only slightly different bidding, at all tables of the duplicate tournament where this hand was dealt. Most of the declarers made an overtrick, including those where the club 3 was lead, but one of them was held to his bare contract, after that lead, by the most superlative kind of defense.

East came up with the K on the club lead, and South let it hold, so he could be in position for a quick ruff on his third club if East repeated the suit. Where that was done, South won with the A, but then worked the diamond finesse, played the diamond A for a heart discard, ruffed a diamond with his spade 8, ruffed the club 8 with the Q and led the spade 5 from dummy. With the diamonds now set up and hearts for entries, it made no difference what East did. The contract was safe, plus an overtrick.

East's brilliant work, at another table, came right upon his winning that first trick with the club K. He immediately led the heart J to the Q to knock out entries. South entered his own hand with the spade 5 to the J, finessed the diamond Q, laid down the diamond A, ruffed a diamond to set up the suit, then led the spade K. East took this with his A and led back his heart K—second Deschapelles Coup of the hand. This took the heart A out of dummy, while East still had his trump 7 to block the run of the suit, so South never was able to discard his last club. He therefore lost two tricks in clubs and one in spades, and barely made his contract.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ K Q J 9 4 ♥ K 10 4 3 ♦ 6 ♣ K 5 2
♠ A 6 3 ♥ 8 7 6 2 ♦ K J 10 5 3 ♣ 10	N. W. E. S.	♠ None ♥ A Q J 9 5 ♦ Q 8 7 2 ♣ J 9 8 7
	♠ 10 8 7 5 2 ♥ None ♦ A 9 4 ♣ A Q 6 4 3

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If both defenders had bid hearts strongly, and West, who doubled the contract, leads the club 10, how should South play this deal to make his 6-Spades redoubled?

Pie crust which has been made up at least a day in advance, wrapped in waxed paper and stored in the refrigerator, rolls out better than crust freshly made. This suggestion also applies to rolled cooky doughs.

Currant jelly spread over roast lamb during the last 20 minutes of the cooking gives extra flavor and glaze. Beat up half a cup of jelly with a fork and spread over the cooking meat.

Baked bacon saves a lot of watching and is especially advised when cooking for a crowd.

Arrange the strips of bacon on a cooking rack or wire cake cooler placed over a shallow pan. Bake for about 10 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

The bacon drippings fall into the pan and can be saved for later use.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

By MARIAN MARTIN

Getting the family off early to school, to work, to play means that you've no time to waste in dressing. But of course you want to look crisp and neat at the breakfast table. Here's the solution in Pattern 9397—a Marian Martin frock. It conveniently buttons down the front, with extra slim lines in front skirt panelling. There's bustline flattery in the soft bodice, darted below the yokes. The scalloped collar is nice in self fabric, as shown, or in contrast, with the optional cuffs to match. A long, full sleeve and a slashed shirtwaist sleeve are other versions included in this style that's so simple to do with the Sew Chart's directions that you'll probably make up several versions!

Pattern 9397 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to Mansfield News-Journal Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

You will like your acorn squash fixed this smart way. Cut the squash in halves, discard the pulp and seeds. In each half place a teaspoon of honey, a speck of cinnamon and cloves, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of paprika and teaspoon of butter. Bake until soft—about an hour—in a moderate oven.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Wants to speak to me?" Carolyn repeated as if puzzled. "But nobody knows I'm home. Who can it be? Did he give his name?

"He didn't give me his name," she said, and Carolyn with a little shrug of her shoulders, said "Excuse me, please," to the rest of us, and went out of the door.

But I noticed two things. First, that her eyes held a distinct expression of dread which I hoped her mother did not notice. Second, that she closed the door behind her, so that we could not possibly hear the conversation.

Dicky's eyes were upon me, and I telegraphed him a signal to keep the attention of Helena and Sam. He promptly put questions that required attention and answering to both of them, and under cover of the distraction I spoke to Ronald standing near me.

"Get on a branch telephone immediately and listen to that conversation," I whispered.

For the fraction of a second he stared at me almost with horror, his standards and breeding revolting. Then, with a realization of what was at stake, he nodded, and went so swiftly and noiselessly out of the room that I was sure neither Sam nor Helena had seen him go.

Just a "Date" Call.

"Who was your caller, Carolyn?" her mother asked playfully.

"One of the boys from New Haven," Carolyn answered easily, too easily, I suspected. "I'd forgotten telling him yesterday that I might come home today. He took a chance on getting me, wants to date me up for a dance next week."

"That will be nice," her mother said, smiling. "I wonder sometimes how you get any studying done with all your dates."

But there was no censure in her voice, and no further inquiry into the identity of the unknown caller. Helena Brixton is one of the women who believe that plenty of "dates" are a necessity for a daughter at college or at home.

Carolyn settled back in her seat and relaxed. I noticed, however, that she was eyeing me furtively, but averting her glances whenever I looked in her direction, and I found myself eagerly awaiting Ronald's return, sure that he could explain why Carolyn should be watching me after her mysterious telephone call.

But when Ronald came back into the room his face was livid, and he came directly to my side, almost, I told myself, as if he were seeking sanctuary. His eyes were averted from everyone else, but just before he reached me he sent Carolyn so withering a look of rage and contempt that I was glad she was not looking at him.

"Careful, Ronald!" I said beneath my breath as he bent over me under the pretense of showing me some photographs on the table. "You mustn't look at Carolyn that way."

"I know," he whispered, then added: "When can I see you alone?"

"I'll try to go out to dinner with you," I whispered, "and I'll manage something. Hush! Here comes the maid."

Switching Partners.

The servant appeared in the living room door, announced quietly: "Dinner is served," and Helena rose, went over to Dicky, and put her hand upon his arm.

"Sam, will you take out Madge?" she said, but before he could reach me, I interposed swiftly:

"I know this is unpardonable, Helena," I said, "but I haven't seen Ronald for so long, and I do want to talk to him. And I know Sam must be dying to talk to Carolyn. Mayn't we switch partners?"

Always use pot holders or a dry cloth to remove dishes from a hot oven. If a damp cloth is used, steam might arise and cause a severe burn.

To prevent your food chopper from slipping around when fastened on an enameled table, place several thicknesse of heavy paper or a cloth on the table before screwing the chopper in place.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, April 12.

A rather depressing and unsatisfactory day, despite much activity and excitement, judging by the lunar and mutual transits. Under pressure and trying to force issues in an effort to launch new enterprises, it is possible that impetuosity, friction and reckless measures may bring to a head rather aggressive and hostile reactions in connection with public, group or fraternal organizations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a lively and enterprising year, although matters may not always move in harmonious grooves. Impetuosity, strife, rash and forceful tactics may be defeating factors, whereas finesse, compromise and stratagem would overcome opposition.

A child born on this day may be aggressive, impetuous, and quarrelsome, wayward and headstrong, although not lacking in ability to compromise or yield if necessary.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

I ordered a basket, you know, one of those basketball baskets, from Joe Lesch over at Yunckers. And waited, and waited and waited.

Finally I says to him: "Joe, what happened to that thing I ordered?"

"Well, now, I had a little trouble on that order," says Joe. "You see, I ordered a punching bag stanchion instead. They cost the same."

Joseph! How did you know I wanted that basket to toss my bundles of grief into? A basket big enough to take 'em, with the magical power of making 'em disappear?

But I didn't need to go in training for a fight The grief hasn't gotten that bad—yet.

Oh Joseph, Joseph! Joseph make up the mind up. (And who is your ASCAP bootlegger this week, my friend.)

* * *

The closer comes the baseball season, the more interference we get from the outlaw sports. Or at least you'd think they'd be outlawed at this time of year.

There's a bucketball game at Lucas tonight and a football game at the high school Monday.

I insist. I will not be lured to North Lake park for an ice skating carnival this weekend coming up. I just won't go!

* * *

"Why," says Fancy Dan the ice skating man, "if I'd a knowd you'd a goed, I'd a tooken you, chum." Don't worry, Daniel, I been tooken.

In the spring a young man's fancy.

"But we'll have none of those fancy Dans on our ball club when the boys start reporting a week from next Wednesday," says George Satterlee, Mansfield Braves' prexy.

"They'll have to have something more on the ball than a twist of the wrist and a flip of the phalanges. Those flip guys flop with us for sure. But I don't think we've got any."

* * *

You want your raw rooks raucous, is that it, George? Boys who beller: "Shove that ol' onion over here, boy!" instead of "Push the pellet to me, paisy."

NCO Triangle Meet Planned

Shelby, Bucyrus, Marion To Run Under Lights.

SHELBY — A triangular track meet will be held here at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday under the floodlights at W. W. Skiles athletic field by teams from Marion, Bucyrus and Shelby.

It is the first time in the history of the school that a track meet has been held here under flood lights. This will be Shelby's first track meet this spring.

Interest in the meet is growing here because Marion and Bucyrus were the two teams that tied Shelby for the football championship of North Central Ohio league last fall. Shelby athletic boosters are interested to see how the teams will come out on the track field.

Outside drills have only been held by the Shelby squad for about a week under Coach William Query. More than 100 candidates turned out for opening drills. Coach Query is selecting his team this week from these candidates.

Richard Whitney, who won second place in the state meet last year in the 440-yard dash, failed to report this spring for the team.

* * *

A number of candidates are showing promise including Bob Laubie. Shelby junior who made the all-NCO honorary football team last fall. Laubie, runs in the dashes.

DEFENDING CHAMPS TAKE TO ABC ALLEYS

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(AP)—Two of last year's winners defend their titles tonight at the American Bowling Congress

The Chicago Monarchs, winners of team play at Detroit with a score of 3,047, will have to top 3065 to dislodge the Vogel Bros. Forest Park, Ill., team from leadership in team standings.

Herb Freitag and Joe Sinke of Chicago defend their doubles crown.

There were no changes among leaders in yesterday's competition.

Rookies Showing Promise

Rizzuto and Novikoff Picked Best of Lot.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—You never can tell about a rookie until you see him under pressure, but it's my guess that the approaching baseball season will produce several youngsters destined to go a long way.

* * *

My nominations for the rookies of the year are Phil Rizzuto, New York Yankees' tiny shortstop, in the American league, and Lou Novikoff, the Chicago Cubs' eccentric outfielder, in the National league.

Both will have to hustle to stay in front of what looks like a bumper crop of recruits Rizzuto's main competition for the rookie title is likely to come from his teammates, Jerry Priddy and Charlie Stanceu, Johnny Lucadello of the Browns, and Mike Ryba (even at 36) and Mickey Harris of the Red Sox.

Behind Novikoff in the National league the outstanding youngsters appear to be Pete Reiser of the Dodgers, Lou Stringer of the Cubs, Walker Cooper of the Cardinals and Mickey Livingston of the Phillies.

Rizzuto may be one of the greatest young ball players of the decade. Many veteran baseball men claim that the stocky little Italian who was chased out of Ebbets field as a kid because he was too small can cover more ground than any shortstop in the game. He has speed, fielding instinct and a rifle arm. He is not a power hitter but he is tough enough up there at the plate.

His keystone partner, Priddy, is a grand ball player and the two of them really should be considered together. They are going to do things that'll make the Yankee stadium fans, long used to great fielding plays from Crosetti, Gordon, Koenig, Lazzeri and others, stand up and cheer.

Although he has come slowly, Charlie Stanceu, Yankee rookie pitcher from Kansas City, appears to have what it takes. Johnny Lucadello, Browns' rookie second baseman, has a job on his hands winning a berth over Don Heffner, but he definitely is one of 1941's finest youngsters. Mike Ryba, who bounced around the Cardinal chain so long, is likely to be the ace of the Red Sox staff and Mickey Harris, the little lefthander, may be right behind him.

The Dodgers are hailing young Pete Reiser, assigned to the center field berth, as the greatest thing that's come along in years. The kid certainly has speed and can hit. But Novikoff is likely to prove a sensation as a distance hitter.

He has power and, while he may be fooled on sucker pitches, he is likely to hit the same pitch right out of the ball yard the next time it's served to him.

* * *

Novikoff's keenest rival for the National league rookie title may be his teammate, Lou Stringer, who temporarily has won the Cubs' shortstop job while Billy Myers is recovering from a minor operation. Walker Cooper, the Cards' husky catcher, is coming so fast he may be the club's No. 1 catcher by June 1. Mickey Livingston, who was tossed into the Higbe deal by the Dodgers, is also threatening to become the first string catcher on his club, the Phils.

Barons Cop Hockey Cup

Overtime Period Needed To Beat Hershey Bears.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Barons unlocked their trophy case today and proudly slipped in the third championship cup that they have won in 12 years of professional hockey.

The Ohioans took the American league title for the second time in three years last night by beating Hershey, 3 to 2. The overtime victory, coming in the fifth game of the final playoff series, put Cleveland on the throne held by Providence last season.

Earl Bartholome, the Barons' versatile utility forward, lashed in a long shot at 1:56 of the extra period to decide the see-saw battle.

The first period was scoreless. Jake Milford of Cleveland and Gordon Petetinger of the Bears tallied in the second, and Harry Frost of the Invaders and Bill Summerhill of the Barons posted points in the third.

The crippled Bears had only 12 men in uniform and the pace told on the Pennsylvanians in the closing period.

* * *

The crowd of 10,743 boosted Cleveland attendance for the season to 285,206, an average of more than 8,600 for the 33 games.

CLEVELAND WRITERS PICK TRIBE TO WIN

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Two Cleveland baseball writers today picked the Indians to win the 1941 American league pennant.

Ed McCauley, the News' baseball reporter, said the Tribe may finish as much as 10 games ahead.

Gordon Cobbledick, who covers the Indians for the Plain Dealer, predicted most of the Tribal competition would come from the New York Yankees, with Detroit a possible contender.

Tygers Open Home Season

Tygers Meet Columbus East Tomorrow.

Mansfield high school's home track season will open tomorrow afternoon when the Tygers tangle with Columbus East at stadium field at 2 o'clock.

East is reported to be especially strong in the sprints and distance events.

Coach Harry Mehock said today several changes probably will be made in the Tyger lineup that entered the meet at Newark last Saturday.

* * *

Elroy "Lightnin'" Jones, still hobbling around on a game knee, will be able to enter the shot putt, Mehock said. Nameth will be a starter in the 440, Kinkle in the 220 and half-mile relay, and Shiplet in the high hurdles.

This afternoon the Tyger reserve team meets New London at stadium field.

Buddy Lewis Hit By May 10 Draft

MARTINSVILLE, Va.—(INS)—Buddy Lewis, young third baseman and clean-up hitter for the Washington Senators, will probably be inducted into the army May 10, it appeared today.

* * *

After talking to officials of his local draft board at Belmont, N. C., Lewis told Bucky Harris, manager of the Senators, that "May 10 is the day they said they'd probably take me."

Lewis said he asked for a four months' deferment to enable him to earn most of his 1941 salary for the support of his parents, but the board "just smiled."

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)— The Chicago grapevine says Gunnar Barlund is going to do some whistle tooting at Monday's meeting of the Illinois boxing commission. . . . Also, the gents of the press say Billy Conn clowned throughout the bout, waving at dolls at the ringside, etc . . . Bates is expected to announce Ducky Pond as its new head coach any hour now. . . . Joe Zanolli, young infielder, has been forgiven for reporting to Greenville (S C) in the Sally league instead of to Greenville (N C) in the Coastal Plain loop. . . . Cleveland may be the next addition to the Mike Jacobs empire

Chicago writers who have seen the Pirates unhesitatingly tab them the worst looking club in the majors . . . Jimmy Cagney, the movie star, has sent four of his trotters east for the summer campaign . . . Could North Carolina and Princeton be planning a football reunion? Anyway, darned near the entire Tiger athletic staff —Christian Gauss, chairman of the athletic council; Head Coach Tad Wieman; Vice President George Brinkley and Track Coach Matty Geiss—is spending the spring holidays in Chapel Hill this week . . . Mr and Mrs. Herbert Zellmer of Milwaukee are Marquette grid fans and don't care who knows it. They have named their new baby Thomas Stidham Zellmer

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

George C. Carens, Boston Traveler: "Bill Bingham called the Harvard coaches together . . . 'Welcome back from your spring holidays,' grinned Bill, realizing all the coaches had been working hard during vacation if they could get any football candidates to work upon."

THAT'S ALL

About the only difference Joe Louis has found between boxing and bowling is that in the ring they set 'em up for him one at a time.

B Links Loop Ready to Go

Players Assigned For League's Eight Teams.

Golfers in The News-Journal B league last night completed their organization for the coming season, and set May 22 as the opening date of a 14-week schedule.

Teams were drawn up for the 8-team league, and after a further check in several positions will be ready to tee off

The league decided to stick to its two-point forfeit rule, one point for the player failing to show up for his match, and one point for the team aggregate.

* * *

Golfers pointed out that under this rule only three forfeits were claimed last season, and with the rule permitting play in advance of scheduled matches it was believed there would be no more, and probably fewer forfeits this summer.

All minor details preparatory to the season's opening were ironed out at the meeting, held at Possum Run golf club.

Cities Bid For State Hoop Meet

Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo Want Joust.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—State High School Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend said today that Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo are making the strongest bids for the state high school basketball tournament next year.

* * *

The state tournament, usually held in Columbus, must be held elsewhere next year since the 1942 American Bowling Congress will be held at the Coliseum on the State Fairgrounds at the usual time for the basketball tourney.

Townsend said that a definite decision probably will be reached June 21 when the state athletic board meets at Cedar Point.

Athletic Director Clem Crowe of Xavier university at Cincinnati is heading the drive to obtain the Class A meet for the Queen City, Townsend said. The location for the tourney at Cincinnati would be the Xavier field house the director added

Clarence (Doc) Spears, Toledo university athletic director, has spoken for the Toledo interests and offered the Toledo university field house, which seats 8,200.

* * *

The Cleveland drive is headed by a "come to Cleveland committee" of which Ford Case of Euclid Shore high school is the chairman. The Cleveland group said the Cleveland Auditorium could easily handle both the Class A and Class B meets.

* * *

Townsend said there is a possibility that the Class B tournament may be held at the Ohio State university men's gymnasium.

DANNING HELPS

RICHMOND, Va.—(AP)— Return of Hank Danning as catcher seems to be just what the doctor ordered for the New York Giants. The Cleveland Indians ran the bases wild while he was in the outfield, but in the two games that he has been behind the plate they haven't stolen a single base and the Giants have won both games—including a 2-0 shutout by Carl Hubbell and Walter Brown yesterday.
